GUARANTEED STOCK OF BOSTON HOLDING COMPANY IS URGED

Speaker Walker of the House Indorses Governor's Bill to Permit Issue Backed by the New Haven Road.

FREE OF TAXATION

Would Enable Mellen Lines, He Says, to Get Money for Necessary Boston & Maine Improvements.

The committee on railroads at the State House today considered the Governor's recommendation that the Boston Railroad Holding Company be authorized to issue preferred stock to be guaranteed by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad.

Speaker Walker of the House appeared in favor of the bill. He said, in part:

"At the recent hearing before the committee on banks and banking and the committee on railroads I opposed the proposition of his excellency to make the bonds of the holding company a legal investment for savings banks. That was a savings bank question, and in my judgment could not be treated as a railroad question without danger to the savings banks. The governor has since then sent in the message now before you.

"The holding company already has the right to issue bonds guaranteed by the New Haven road. Such bonds are subject to taxation in Massachusetts and in other states. The fact that these bonds are subject to taxation in Massachusetts greatly restricts their sale in Massachusetts and affects the price at which they can be sold. The average rate of taxation in Massachusetts is over 1 1/2 per cent. These bonds bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent. Therefore these bonds would net a holder less than 2 1/2 per cent. Few investors in Massachusetts can afford to invest money at 2 1/2 per cent.

"There are legal as well as other objections to exempting these bonds from taxation. It is believed that preferred stock guaranteed by the New Haven road would be as safe and as good securities as such bonds. Such preferred stock would be tax exempt under our laws. Therefore, by the issue of such stock the road could get the money which is required to improve and develop the Boston & Maine cheaper than by the issue of such bonds. This means that, for the issue of a given amount of such securities, more money will be produced for the use of the railroad. This is in the interest of the shipper and in the interest of the public generally. It is consistent with the long established policy of Massachusetts, viz., to permit a public service corporation to issue only such an amount of securities, at as high a price as possible, to produce the necessary funds. The fewer the securities issued for a given amount of money the less the dividend and interest charges upon the railroad and thus the greater its financial ability to improve service and lower rates.

"It is important that the right to issue such preferred stock be granted this year. It is essential to the interests of Massachusetts and of New England that the railroad improvements contemplated should be made as soon as possible. Money must be had to make them. Therefore, to delay in granting the right to issue this preferred stock is clearly against the interests of the people of Massachusetts. It may be remarked incidentally that the proposed issue of preferred stock will be held largely within the commonwealth. The Governor is of opinion that this is an important consideration.

"Let us not confuse the issue. It is said that the New Haven road has violated our laws and its charter, therefore, is subject to forfeiture. This is true. A commission has reported that an investigation of the New Haven has been made, and that its issue of securities and other acts in violation of our law be not ratified or approved until after such investigation has been made, and then that only such acts be ratified as are consistent with the public interest. To this I agree. But that has nothing to do with the question before this committee. We are not dealing now with the past acts of that corporation. We are dealing with the future acts. We cannot afford to hold up the development of our railroad facilities while we thresh out the past. We ought to deal with that question separately and it must be dealt with.

"The proposed issue of stock to which I refer must be and will be made subject to our law and subject to the control of our railroad commission. We must remember that the railroad company holding bill, which is now sought to be amended, was passed since these acts in violation of our laws were committed. That act gave the right to the holding company to issue bonds to be guaranteed by the New Haven road. The recommendation of the Governor goes no further. It operates no further as a ratification of the acts of the New Haven than did the bill itself. It simply gives the company the right to issue preferred stock instead of bonds and it is in the

BRITAIN IS PLEASED WITH KING GEORGE'S MESSAGE FOR NAVY

Praises Spirit of Loyalty and Appreciation for the Service to Which He Had Devoted His Life.

ASKS FOR SUPPORT

LONDON—England is inclined today to praise the loyalty of King George V. to the navy, in the service of which he has passed so many years of his life, in issuing to that branch of the imperial defense one of his first messages as ruler of the empire. It aptly fits, the people say, his popular title as the "Sailor Prince."

In close sympathy to the King's message, which is an expression of praise and appreciation for the loyalty of the navy to King Edward, is the letter of Alexandra, the Queen mother, to the nation.

King George's first message to Parliament, announcing his father's passing and expressing the loss that both he and the nation had sustained through it, was read in the House of Commons and in the House of Lords today, the members standing with bared heads. Deputy Speaker Emmott read the King's message in the Commons and the lord chancellor in the House of Lords.

Immediately after the reading both houses adopted by acclamation messages of condolence to be sent to the King and the Queen mother. These refer to the great work that the late ruler did in maintaining friendly relations. The messages congratulate the new King and promise him the allegiance of the members of Parliament.

King George, in his message to the navy, says:

"It is my earnest wish on succeeding to the throne to make known to the navy how deeply grateful I am for its faithful and distinguished services rendered to the late King, my beloved

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — Today's morning session of the nineteenth annual meeting of the General Society, Daughters of the Revolution, opened at 10 o'clock in Hotel Chelsea, and was occupied principally with the hearing of reports of state regents from New Jersey, Utah, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin and the election of general officers. The election was presided over by Mrs. Frank E. Fitz of Massachusetts as president-general, and of Miss Alice M. Granger of Massachusetts as junior director.

This afternoon's session will include reports of the election of general officers and board of managers and the consideration of the Annapolis memorial. In the evening the installation of officers and newly-elected members of the board will be followed by an informal and social hour.

Thursday the members will take various excursions about Atlantic City; Friday, the final day, there will be an excursion to Valley Forge and an inspection of the monuments and relics.

REFUSE TO REOPEN "DIRECT" SENATE VOTE ISSUE IN HOUSE

The motion of Representative Brown of Meadford to reconsider the action in the House in adopting the resolution in favor of the election of United States senators by popular vote, was defeated on a roll call vote today by 115 to 89.

The motion precipitated one of the strongest debates in the House this year. The merits of the question were absolutely abandoned and those who secured the floor during the half hour allowed for debate devoted their attention principally to charging their opponents with unfairness.

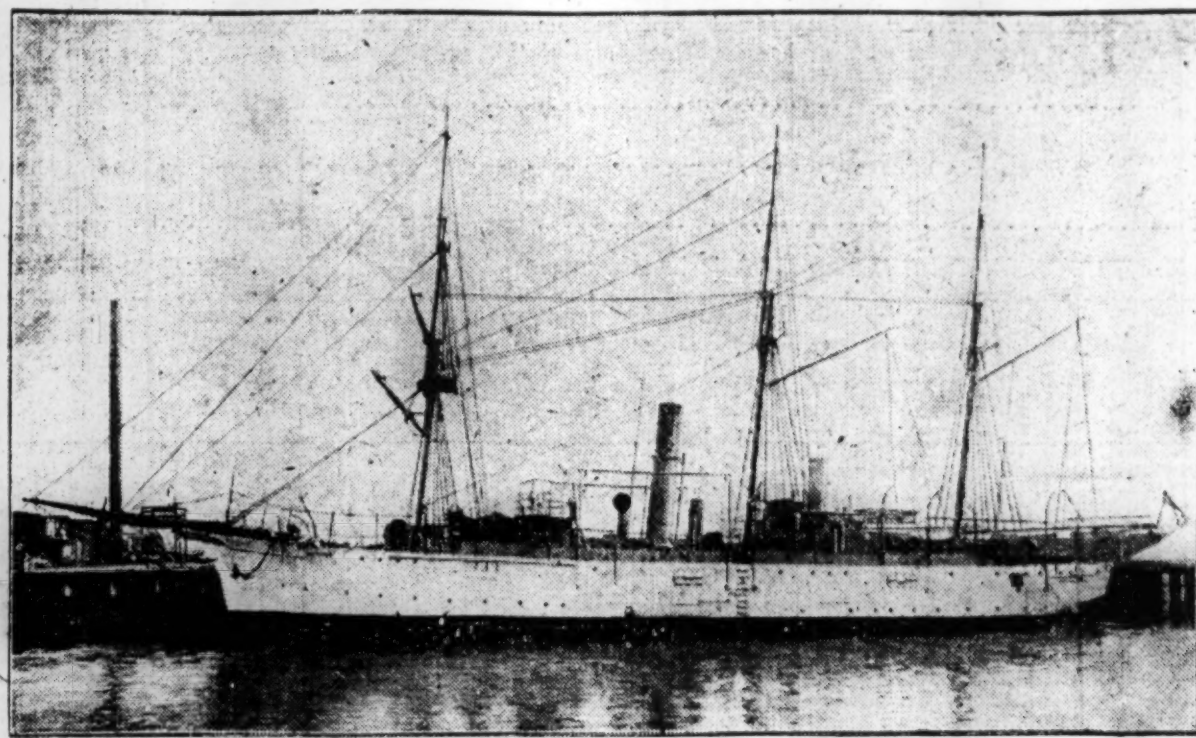

Representative Brown was the first speaker and he took up the remark made Tuesday by Representative Riley of Maine, stating that the absence of a "steam roller" in Massachusetts was well shown by the number of telegrams which were being distributed to the members.

Representative Brown stated that it was a manifest attempt to mislead the House into a belief that the telegrams related to the bill under discussion, which as a matter of fact they were messages urging members to support the bill requiring lights on vehicles at night. He challenged his opponent to produce any telegrams bearing on the question under discussion.

Mr. Shaw of Boston declared that he had in his hand indisputable evidence in the form of telegrams that members of the Legislature have been absolutely

HIGH SCHOOL COST PREVENTS OUTLAY FOR LOWER GRADES

The enormous growth in number of high school pupils, together with the increase in the cost of each pupil for supplies and incidentals, has resulted in such demands upon the appropriation that it has not been possible under existing conditions to supply the real needs of the elementary schools, according to the report of William T. Keough, business agent of the Boston school committee for the year ending Jan. 31, 1910, given out today.

A comparison of costs for this year and last, including all schools and playgrounds, gives these figures: For 1909-10, $3,623,292.32; for 1908-10, $3,843,074, showing an increase this year of $220,381.68.

Costs for the 15 normal, Latin and high schools, exclusive of new buildings, repairs, rents, administration, supervision, etc., were $838,270.92 total, $78.81 per pupil, with an average membership of 10,437; for the 66 elementary schools, $2,603,210.61 total, $29.49 per pupil, with an average membership of 88,271; for the Horace Mann school $29,332.26 total, $191.71 per pupil, with an average membership of 153; for the trade school for girls, running three and a half months, $8,059.62 total, $101.85 per pupil, with an average membership of 226.

Costs for the five evening high schools were $42,741.09 total, $18.85 per pupil, with an average attendance of 2,207; for the 14 evening elementary schools, $74,308.73 total, $17.32 per pupil, with an average attendance of 4,290; for the two evening school extensions, $699.04 total, $3.24 per pupil, with an average attendance of 217; for the five evening industrial schools, $13,439.30 total, $30.75 per pupil, with an average attendance of 437; for the summer high school, $19,343.32 total, $7.44 per pupil, with 29 sessions and an average attendance of 260.

Costs for schoolyard playgrounds, $15,198.28 total, $2.54 per pupil; for the 37 park playgrounds, $11,372.06 total, $2.16 per pupil, with an average attendance of 5,209.

The Boston fusilier veteran corps will parade today, starting at 3 p. m. at Dover street, in the program of celebration of its one hundred twenty-third anniversary, and for the first time in its history will be escorted by marines, bluejackets and the M. V. M. A banquet will be held this evening at 6 o'clock in Faneuil hall.

Governor Draper and Mayor Fitzgerald will review the corps. The procession will be made up as follows:

Escort of mounted police.
Marine corps band.
Two companies of marines from the navy yard.
Bugle corps.

Company of bluejackets from ships in the harbor.
Caldwell's brass band, 24 pieces.
Sixth company, C. A. C. Capt. B. B. Shedd commanding.

Fusilier veteran corps and guests.
At Faneuil hall well known military officers and state and city dignitaries will make addresses.
The corps will be commanded by Maj. Thomas Milligan. An enjoyable program has been arranged for the entertainment of guests.

Captain Sinclair will be toastmaster and is also at the head of the reception committee, with Maj. A. C. Sawyer as chief of staff.
The route will be as follows: Dover street to Tremont, Berkeley, Boylston, Arlington, Beacon, School, Washington, Milk, Broad and Commercial and through the market to Faneuil hall.

MERCHANT TAX LAW COMMITTEE ISSUES PAMPHLET ANSWER

S. R. Wrightington, secretary of the manufacturers' and merchants' committee on tax laws, gave out a statement today regarding an unsigned political circular, which, he says, has been sent to all the members of the Massachusetts Legislature, in opposition to the proposed amendment to the state constitution to permit classification of property for purposes of taxation. Mr. Wrightington says:

"According to chapter 581 of the acts of 1907 the publication of anonymous political circulars is forbidden. It is well known that the real opposition to this effort by the organized business men of the state to improve our taxes comes from certain powerful interests who have never thought it best to oppose it openly.

"They have persistently opposed all attempts to remove the inequities of our present system of taxation in the belief that it would deprive them of financial advantages from the present methods. Last fall the rumor was skillfully circulated that the amendment was designed to permit such radical taxes as were proposed in the English budget since adopted. We promptly showed that all the taxes in the English budget could be enacted today under the present constitution and we have heard no more about it.

"They persistently ignore the fact that the taxes regarded as radical are excises such as the inheritance, land transfer and corporation taxes, now levied under a different clause in the constitution from that which it is proposed to amend."

CHINESE RIOTS ARE RENEWED.

GERMAN EMPEROR PREPARES BATTLE FOR MR. ROOSEVELT

All Arms of Service Represented in Maneuvers at Doberitz, Which Are Explained by Kaiser.

GUESTS AT PALACE

BERLIN—Emperor William arranged a sham battle at Doberitz today in which 12,000 men of all arms of the service took part for the benefit of Mr. Roosevelt.

The maneuvers were strictly private, not even the newspaper men being permitted to attend. As a special mark of respect, Mrs. Roosevelt, Kermit and Miss Ethel were invited and attended. The American wore his military coat and slouch hat and the Kaiser was in the uniform of a field marshal.

The two men were scarcely 10 feet apart at any time during the maneuvers and chatted like boys. The Kaiser seemed proud to show the efficiency of the various branches of the army, his only disappointment being the failure of the balloon corps, aboard the military dirigible Gross III, to appear. The balloon ascended from its headquarters at Tegel, but a gale forced the crew to abandon the flight.

Two regiments of artillery, a troop of cavalry, a brigade of infantry, a corps of sappers and an automobile corps participated in the maneuvers. Mr. Roosevelt was loud in his praise of the maneuvers, both to the Kaiser and to the newspaper men who awaited him outside the field. The maneuvers wound up with a sham battle.

Other features of the maneuvers that greatly interested Mr. Roosevelt and which the Kaiser explained to him in detail were the work of the telephone, telegraph and other technical branches. The Kaiser's intimate knowledge of every phase of army work was a surprise to his guest, despite the Kaiser's reputation for being a close student of military questions.

Mr. Roosevelt refused to make any

STATUES TO NOTED POLES UNVEILED IN CAPITAL OF NATION

WASHINGTON—From all sections of the United States, Polish-Americans gathered today in this city to attend the double unveiling of statues of two great Polish patriots, Kosciuszko and Pulaski, who took prominent parts in the American revolution.

The statues were presented to the nation by the Polish National Alliance, and President Taft accepted the gifts. Secretary of War Dickinson presided at the ceremonies. The program included an invocation by Bishop Paul P. Rhode of Chicago and addresses by several prominent Poles.

The Pulaski statue stands in the triangle at Pennsylvania avenue and Thirtieth street, while that to Kosciuszko is in Lafayette square. At the conclusion of the Pulaski program the parade marched to Lafayette square where similar ceremonies were held. A banquet will be held tonight and President Taft is expected to attend. The annual convention of the Polish National Alliance will begin tomorrow.

THREE BALLOONISTS END UNIQUE VOYAGE

HOLDEN, Mass.—Ending an early morning balloon voyage of about 75 miles, air line, the balloon Pittsfield, Heart of the Berkshires, which arose from Aero park, at Pittsfield, at 4 a. m. today, descended here three hours afterward. The balloon was piloted by Charles J. Glidden, and carried as passengers Rabbi Charles Fleischer of Boston and J. J. Van Valkenburg of South Framingham.

The aeronauts were unable to view Halley's comet, on account of the hazy atmospheric conditions. The highest elevation attained was 6,400 feet, and the temperature was found to be practically the same as on the earth. Instruments were taken along to view the comet and all the necessities for a long flight.

Rabbi Fleischer, in describing his experiences says:

"This first flight of mine gave me pleasure far beyond any I had imagined."

He speaks of the "steady fascination of the voyage," and adds: "The impressive silence, exquisite beauty of the landscape and the graceful flight of the balloon itself are the features that stand out in this first analysis of my journey."

The New Haven survey shows also that the Southern New England will probably have to enter Connecticut at two points and build for a distance of some 12 miles in this state. This could not be done by an outside company like the Grand Trunk or the Southern New England as an independent corporation without an appeal to the Legislature of this state.

MR. TAFT'S FINDING IN BALLINGER CASE A TOPIC OF ATTACK

Mr. Brandeis Hints That an Exoneration Was Written by Federal Attorney for the Interior Department.

PROMISES A COPY

He Declares That Original Draft of the Document Is Now in the Possession of the President.

WASHINGTON—An alleged "striking similarity" between the memorandum prepared by Oscar Lawler, assistant attorney-general for the interior department, and President Taft's finding in the Ballinger case is the contention made today by Atty. Louis D. Brandeis, counsel for L. R. Glavis.

It is said that when the congressional commission reconvenes tomorrow a duplicate copy of Mr. Lawler's memorandum will be produced, the committee having refused to order the production of the original, which Mr. Brandeis says is still held by the President.

The actual probe into the official propriety of Mr. Ballinger's actions while commissioner of the general land office and secretary of the interior is completed. Mr. Brandeis closed this phase with inquiries as to his connection in legal matters with western land claimants.

Secretary Ballinger described his legal work in this connection as "a matter of accommodation." He said: "I did not in a legal sense appear for those people. I was not attorney for them. I had nothing to do with these claims at any time."

Hardly had he finished when Mr. Brandeis broke in by reading from a letter written by Mr. Schwartz, chief of the field division, to Commissioner of the Land Office Dennett upon an affidavit prepared by Mr. Ballinger for Clarence Cunningham. The letter in part said:

"The affidavit is ingenious, but not convincing. The showing is ex-parte, although made after several weeks' careful consideration by Cunningham and his attorney."

"That doesn't sound as though Schwartz thought the work was that of a dentist, does it?" asked Mr. Brandeis. "That is the opinion of Schwartz," replied Mr. Ballinger.

"Of a very fine mind, I believe," added Mr. Brandeis.

"I have a high regard for Mr. Schwartz," retorted Mr. Ballinger.

Attorney Brandeis also showed a letter written by Miles F. Moore, a Cunningham claimant, to Mr. Ballinger.

"Owing to the fact," the letter ran, "that you were at one time counsel for our people, you cannot consistently act in this matter."

A long list of concerns and men was brought forward by Mr. Brandeis as having had Mr. Ballinger's legal aid in land matters at different times. For the Hanford Irrigation Company, Mr. Ballinger had written Commissioner Dennett:

"We are anxious to have patents issued."

Mr. Ballinger explained his use of the word "we" by saying that he owned $2000 worth of stock in this company which he had since sold.

For the Wapito Irrigation Company, a land concern, it was shown Mr. Ballinger requested Secretary of the Interior Garfield to instruct the inspector to advise the Indians who owned the lands to sell them to him and associates and was denied by Mr. Garfield.

The Green group of Alaska claimants, the Des Chutes Railroad Company and U. G. Price were named as having been represented by Mr. Ballinger.

Upon the point of a brief received by the land office signed by Secretary Ballinger and his cousin, Jack Ballinger, the witness gave a long defense of his action. Opinions upon this subject by President Taft and the attorney-general were cited, holding that the law forbidding government employees from appearing in the prosecution of any claim against the government within two years after quitting office were confined merely to money claims. These opinions were based upon decisions of former secretaries of the interior who had allowed former employees of the land office to appear in land cases.

HOME GOVERNMENT WILL DEVELOP ASIATIC COLONY

France Decides to Aid "Indo-Chine," Which Is Giving Evidence of Vitality and Progress—Will Sanction Policy of Governor-General.

(Special to The Monitor.)

PARIS—France's Asiatic colony, Indo-China, which includes Annam, Tonkin, Cochinchina, Laos and Cambodia, is at last to be energetically developed. The colony has managed to struggle along in spite of the many obstacles to its progress caused by physical and administrative conditions, and today it gives such practical evidence of vitality and progress, that the home government can no longer ignore its demands for help and reform. The government has definitely decided to sanction and support the policy of Mr. Klobukowski, the governor-general of Indo-China, who has been for some time in Paris, and in frequent conference with the colonial minister.

Last year the estimates in the budget showed a surplus of between 700,000 and 800,000 piasters, whereas the actual surplus showed 1,200,000 piasters. In addition to this substantial proof of progress, the governor-general reported that the financial condition of the country generally was excellent, and quoted as proof of this statement the fact that the natives, in spite of two typhoons and very serious floods during the year, had paid up their taxes promptly in one single payment, instead of paying the same by instalments.

The greatest difficulty with which the country has to contend are the floods on the vast plains which are mainly devoted to the cultivation of rice. The general conformation of the country and the primitive methods of living followed by the natives in the interior, have induced conditions with which they have been unable hitherto to deal.

The fact that the Nord-Annam-Tonkin Company has for many years had a monopoly on the production and sale of alcohol and salt throughout the colony, and especially their onerous method of exercising this monopoly has been a constant cause of dissatisfaction to the native population, and Mr. Klobukowski is reported to have stated a short time ago that the power of this company was exceedingly dangerous to the colony, inasmuch as its monopolies permitted it to cause an artificial fluctuation of values in the colony. The governor-general is to be warmly congratulated on his new policy, which is largely constructive, and on the fact that he has succeeded in convincing the government that his proposals for developing the country and improving the condition of the inhabitants are practical and beneficial; already they have produced an excellent effect on a large majority of the inhabitants. The government has not only sanctioned the policy but has also authorized a loan to be raised of 1,000,000,000 to defray the costs of the proposed new works.

FINANCIERS ARE CURIOUS TO LEARN DETAILS OF LOAN

(Special to The Monitor.)

LONDON—Referring to the question of the new Austrian loan as increased from £7,630,000 to £9,100,000 at the desire of the Polish party and sanctioned by the chamber recently, the Vienna correspondent of the Times reports that considerable curiosity is displayed in financial circles as to the price of issue and the placing of the loan. The loan of £5,880,000 issued at the commencement of this year, he points out, "was placed without the help of the Rothschild group of banks by direct arrangement between the postoffice savings bank, acting as banker of the state and some 20 financial institutions in Vienna and the provinces."

The attempt made by Dr. de Billinski, the finance minister, thus to popularize consols as an investment throughout the country, instead of relying solely upon the business connections of the four large banks that form the Rothschild group was attended with success. During the debate on the new loan he stated, however, that he attached the greatest value to the maintenance of good relations with the group, and yesterday he entered into negotiations with its representative.

According to an official announcement the result of the negotiations was that the finance minister adhered to his principle that the Rothschild banks, like the other financial institutions, must deal not directly with the government, as of old, but with postoffice savings banks, and not be dictated, as was the case with the January loan, by the postoffice savings bank unilaterally. The Rothschild group has thus yielded a point of form, while the finance minister has yielded the substance of his contention that the postoffice savings bank, as banker to the state, should determine the conditions for the issue of further loans.

FRENCH DIFFER ON COMET FACTS

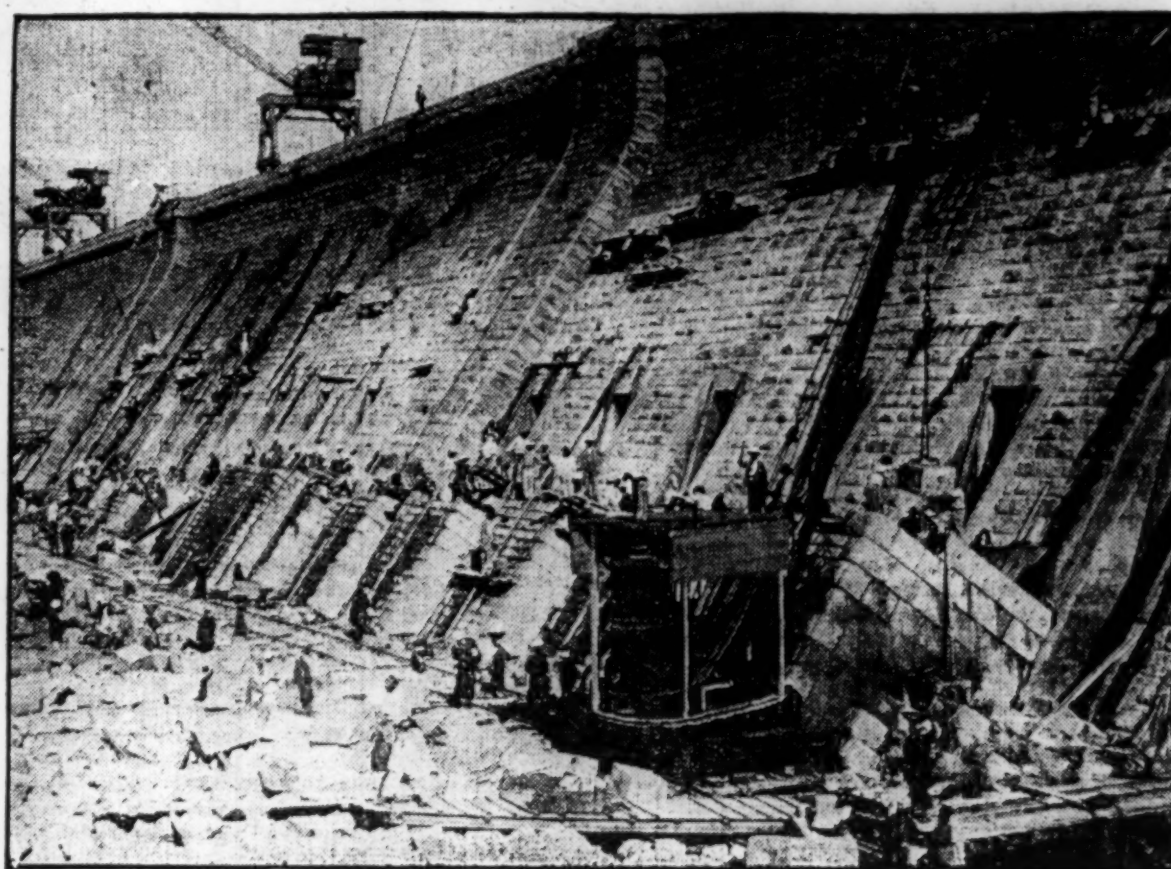

PARIS—Maurice Hamy of the Paris observatory reports that the length of the tail of Halley's comet has increased from five to 10 degrees in three days. Professor Deslandres of the University of Dijon finds a reappearance in the spectroscopic of cyanogen, the gas which was observed in January and February, but which disappeared in March. Camille Flammarion thinks that the tail of the comet is simply an optical phenomenon similar to the wake of a ship at sea.

Extensive Alterations Are Being Made to Assouan Dam

GOVERNMENT INCREASING HEIGHT OF STRUCTURE BY SIX METERS—OLD GATES TO LOCKS ARE BEING USED—AND TWO NEW ONES ARE BEING BUILT

THE NEW WORK.
Labor of strengthening old dam is being rapidly pushed forward.

(Special to The Monitor.)

CAIRO—As is well known, the government has decided to heighten the Assouan dam to the extent of six meters.

In order to carry out this work in a satisfactory manner it has been found necessary to broaden and to strengthen the existing dam. It is difficult to realize the immense weight of water held back by this, one of the most wonderful engineering feats, and it has been found imperative to broaden the dam, from the foundations upward, in order that the height may not be too great in proportion to the width.

The quarters provided for the officers and men are of the most comfortable description, for they have been provided with gardens and tennis courts; and they have a whole day free a fortnight, for all work is stopped for 24 hours once every 15 days.

It is interesting to note that at present the old and the new work is connected merely by iron bars. The new work up to the level of the old is now completed and will be left as it is for two years to become the same temperature as the old, a space of about 30 cubic meters having been left between the old and the new work, then all will be grouted into one solid mass and the actual heightening of the dam begun. This should be completed to enable them to hold up water in about another two years from that time.

The old gates to the locks are all being used, only moved lower down, but two new locks are being built. It was very interesting to watch how this was being carried out. The gates, after having most of the heavy gear for opening and shutting them removed, were bodily lifted by screw jacks on to hydraulic trucks, and then slid down on rails to their new position, a very ticklish job when one considers the height of the gates as well as their narrowness and weight.

The dam is built throughout of granite quarried in the neighborhood cut into suitable sized blocks and brought to the site on a temporary railway.

Every attention is paid to the comfort of the men engaged on the work and a special water plant and filter beds have been constructed so as to insure their obtaining good water.

GOOD PRIZES TO BE OFFERED TO AVIATORS AT BUDAPEST

VIENNA—The program of the aviation meeting to be held at Budapest from June 5 to 25 has just been published by the Hungarian Aero Club. Prizes amounting to $110,000 will be competed for. Among the items of the program will be a flight of 100 kilometers to a fixed destination and back within five hours, for which the first prize of $20,000 is offered.

LONDON—The dirigibles, whether Zeppelins, Parsevals, or of British manufacture, are as yet not sufficiently sturdy to withstand tempestuous weather.

This has been clearly instanced by the regrettable loss of the airship Zeppelin II, which was torn from its moorings and wrecked in the neighborhood of Veilburg, and the British dirigible of which the gas bag was torn and the framework slightly damaged while being towed by a number of soldiers. It is true that with the collapse of the gas bag of a dirigible, the airship speedily assumes the aspect of an absolute wreck, whereas, provided the framework and engine are undamaged, it is sometimes possible to repair the gas bag with comparative ease. It would seem, however, that the design will have to be considerably altered and strengthened before these great airships will be able to withstand a high wind, especially when anchored or being towed close to the earth.

NICE—The first flying race over the sea, the course, to Cap Ferrat and back, being 12½ kilometers each way, has taken place. Of the eight competitors only one descended in the sea, and he was retrieved with nothing more than a ducking. Hubert Latham was the winner, covering the distance in 16m. 35s.; the Hon. C. S. Rolls was second, having taken in his first effort 20m. 58 3/5s., which, however, he reduced in the second attempt to 18 m. 24 2/5s.; M. Duray was third with 18m. 36s. Flights have also been made over the sea from Nice to Angoulême and back; indeed, M. Latham made the trip twice without descending.

Improvement Commission's Work

LARGE PARLIAMENTARY APPROPRIATION WILL AID IN BEAUTIFYING CITY OF OTTAWA

GOVERNMENT DRIVEWAY.
Scene where the improvement commission's work has converted a waste into a beautiful driveway-park. The $100,000 grant will extend the scope of the commission.

(Special to The Monitor.)

OTTAWA, Ont.—The recent Parliament late in the session passed a measure which insures to this city the total annual payment of $100,000 for the use of the Ottawa improvement commission. It is through the medium of this commission that the beautification of the capital is being systematically accomplished and the above mentioned grant exceeds the government's previous contributions to the work by $40,000.

In addition to the $100,000 for "beautification" the legislation also authorizes the annual payment of $15,000 to the corporation of Ottawa as a just contribution toward maintenance of the city's fire protection department.

BIDS AUTHORIZED FOR NEW DREDGE

(Special to The Monitor.)

ANCON, Canal Zone—Bids have been authorized for a ladder dredge with two-yard buckets for excavation in the Pacific entrance of the canal. The specifications require that it shall be capable of excavating 1000 cubic yards an hour. It must be of the sea-going type and be completely erected at the manufacturers' yards, make the voyage to Balboa under its own steam and be delivered within one year from the placing of the contract. It must be equipped to discharge into its bins or overboard into barges, and its bins must be capable of carrying 1200 cubic yards of material.

There are four French ladder dredges, rebuilt in the service of the isthmian canal commission, at the Pacific entrance, but the new dredge will have a capacity equal to all of them. The Gopher is the only one that is a sea-going ladder dredge, and the buckets will have about five times the capacity of those of the Gopher, and will be able to excavate about three times as rapidly as the Gopher. Moreover, the latter discharges only into barges.

BEGIN WORK ON SHIPS.

(Special to The Monitor.)

PARIS—A meeting of the council of ministers was held recently when Admiral Boue de Lapeyriere, minister of marine, reported that the construction of the two new battleships recently sanctioned by Parliament would be commenced at once. The names of the two vessels are to be Jean Bart and Courbet.

LIEUTENANTS TO TAKE CHARGE.

(Special to The Monitor.)

LONDON—Two lieutenants and a detachment of men have arrived at Plymouth for the purpose of taking out the two new Australian destroyers Parramatta and Yarra, which have just been built under the new defense scheme of the Australian commonwealth.

PREMIER MAY NOT HOLD OFFICE BEYOND CLOSE OF THE YEAR

(Special Correspondence of The Monitor.)

ROME—The Italian Parliament has met and the condition of affairs in the country at the present moment may be said to give reasonable grounds for the opinion expressed that Signor Luzzatti will not hold office beyond the close of the present year, even if for so long a time. The shipping bill is one of the biggest questions to be discussed by the present Parliament, in addition to which there are the budgets and other questions to be dealt with before July next when the houses rise. Among these questions is the reorganization of the railways, which have been taken over by the state. Since coming under the control of the government, the railway service has certainly improved, but there is still room for improvement, especially from the financial point of view.

Again there is a bill in connection with the improvement of education in the country, and involving the expenditure of

SPANISH INVITE ARGENTINE HEAD

ROME—President-elect Dr. R. Saenz Pena of the Argentine Republic, who is now minister to Italy, has been invited by King Alfonso to visit Madrid. The invitation has been accepted by Senor Pena, who has asked that the date be fixed at some time beyond the elections in Argentina which close on June 12.

The action of the Spanish King is regarded here as significant in showing that Spain has determined to use every means to strengthen the bonds between that country and its former colonies.

JAPANESE TO OFFICER SHIPS.

SEATTLE, Wash.—The superseding of British officers by Japanese on the Japanese trans-Pacific liners, the officers being removed generally at this end of the run, is said to be due to pressure of Japanese public opinion.

a sum of 4,000,000 lire a year, as well as the great afforestation scheme, including proposals for the preservation of existing forests, as well as the establishment of extensive state forests.

There is perhaps no scheme under the consideration of the government which is of greater importance, both to the present as well as the future of the country, than the proposals to prevent the reckless cutting down of trees which has now been going on practically unchecked for some considerable time. The question of the preservation of the forests has been one of Signor Luzzatti's hobbies.

Another matter of no small importance confronting the present Parliament is the question of electoral reform. As to whether the reform will take the place of the extension of the suffrage to a large number of the less educated people or not, remains to be seen. In any case it is to be hoped that the present interference with the freedom of voting which is so frequent in many parts of the country will be put an end to. The opinion is expressed in many quarters that the best reform will be the better education of the people.

Signor Luzzatti was one of Signor Sonnino's right-hand men, and succeeded the former premier on his downfall, caused by the opposition of the Giolittian majority. Signor Sonnino, in spite of his failure is far from unpopular in the country and his supporters consider that his return to office will take place at no distant date.

AMERICAN FENCING STYLE VINDICATED BY BAINBRIDGE

His Recent Victory in the Amateur Championships at Foils Has Done Much to Overcome Idea That Home School Was Inferior to Foreign.

The victory of G. K. Bainbridge of the New York Athletic Club in the recent contests for the national fencing championship with foils is greeted by advocates of the American school as a vindication of their methods. Bainbridge is one of the best examples of the style developed in this country—a style that has found ridicule and harsh criticism among exponents of the French, Italian and German schools—and his second defeat of all comers for the highest title amateurs can aspire to in the United States is very gratifying.

The chief feature of the American method of using the foil is a stiff, unyielding wrist action, which gives the fencer a less graceful appearance than the artful supple play taught entirely in France and Italy, and principally for its lack of spectacular finish it has been called lacking in skill and primitive. Such it is decidedly not, however, and since effectiveness is after all the one thing to be sought in a contest in which the besting of an adversary is the object in view, any fair method that wins must perform be recognized as best.

Of course an individual case is not sufficient to base generalities upon, but the fact that Bainbridge fenced through a large field of exponents of every known school of fencing, eventually triumphing with the American style, is certainly significant.

It was curious to note the attitude of the crowd toward the champion during the tournament. Believers in the foreign styles were in the majority and there were many unfavorable comments made when Bainbridge came out for his bouts, most people not liking his strong, unyielding grip of the foil (emphasized probably by his fencing left-handed) and his lack of flourish. Later the feeling changed. That stiff wrist moved very little, but it moved enough to steer every thrust from its mark, and when an effort was made to cast aside the foil it held, it suddenly became of steel. Never yielding a quarter of an inch, it wore down little by little the brilliant flourishes of rival foils, tiring by its very inflexibility. And then came the moment of calm, when it saw an opening, and, suddenly waking into life, it lunged forward, straight, firm and irresistible, carrying home its message of defeat. It was not "pretty" work, but it typified well the character of the people that evolved the school—strong, straightforward and letting nothing rest them from their purpose.

The thing that makes Bainbridge so hard a rival is the familiarity with all methods. He has fenced under masters of every school and he knows all the tricks of their trade, though he defeats them all with the same means—an adamant defense against which they hurl in vain their wildest play; a furious attack delivered the minute a blade shows the least sign of let-up.

Army officers who assisted at the championship tournament were enthusiastic over Bainbridge's victory because most of them are strong advocates of the school he represents.

MAINE ALLOWS BATES NO HITS

ORONO, Me.—The University of Maine shut out Bates, 5 to 0, Tuesday, in the first game of the Maine intercollegiate championship series. McHale did not allow Bates a single hit. The Bates players were unusually slow on the bases, eight men reaching first, six through Maine's errors, without getting beyond third, although there were two men on bases, with but one out several times. The score:

BONNELL JOINS A. L. A. M.
NEW YORK—Horace A. Bonnell, treasurer of the American Automobile Association, has joined forces with the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers. He will act as assistant to Alfred Reeves, the general manager, taking the place made vacant by the resignation of C. F. Clarkson, who is now associated with the Society of Automobile Engineers. Mr. Bonnell has been in the trade and industry for some time. He is one of the pioneer automobilists, and for several years was secretary of the New Jersey Automobile and Motor Club of Newark. He has been manager of the Newark show for the past three years. Largely through his efforts the Associated Automobile Clubs of New Jersey were reorganized.

TWO ATHLETIC MEETS WILL BE HELD BY R. I. STATE THIS WEEK

KINGSTON, R. I.—With the annual interclass meet of the Rhode Island State College coming Friday afternoon, the third annual interscholastic meet Saturday morning and afternoon, it is probable that the most auspicious two days of sports that have ever occurred since the foundation of the state college will take place during that time.

In spite of the fact that the interscholastic meet here was made memorable last year by the breaking of a world's record by Ballard of the B. A. A. and the presence of 117 high school athletes, it is evident that the meet this year will exceed in popular interest the one of last year in every respect. It is quite probable that nearly 150 athletes, representing almost every portion of the state, will be present and to facilitate the athletes and their supporters getting down to the meet before 10 a. m., the time the meet is scheduled, a special train will be run from Providence by the college, leaving there at 9 a. m. and taking the athletes back at a convenient time in the afternoon.

The events will consist of 100, 220, 440 and 880 yard runs and dashes, one and two mile runs, high and low hurdles, broad jump, high jump, pole vault, 12-lb. shot put and hammer throw. After the meet gold, silver and bronze medals will be presented to the winners, and the winning high school team will be presented with the large sterling silver cup, which Technical high school of Providence won last year.

The interclass meet to be held at the West Kingston fair grounds, where the interscholastic meet will be held Saturday, will be of considerably more importance than it has in the past owing to the scheduling of either a triangular meet with Connecticut state college and New Hampshire state, or a dual meet with both or one. Track Manager Kent will arrange to hold at least one intercollegiate meet between Rhode Island state and another college this spring, and the interclass meet Friday will serve as a tryout for the team which will go into such meet. Without the two-mile run and substituting in its place a half-mile relay and 10 pounds in each case in the shot and hammer events instead of 12 pounds, the events in the interclass meet will be essentially the same as those scheduled for the interscholastic.

DARTMOUTH TEAM WINS FROM COLBY

HANOVER, N. H.—Dartmouth easily defeated Colby Tuesday, 6 to 1. Ralph Good had very poor support at critical times and the home team was able to take advantage of the visitors' errors. Colby scored in the first on a hit by Cary and an error by Conroy. Dartmouth tied in the second by a clean drive by Hoban and a sacrifice by Chadbourne. Newton scored in the second and a three-base hit by Gammons in the fifth put Dartmouth two runs in the good. Hits by Emerson, Hoban and Chadbourne gave the Green three in the eighth. The score:

Innings..... 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 R.H.E.
Dartmouth..... 0 1 1 0 1 0 0 3 — 6 7 1
Colby..... 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 — 1 4 4

HARVARD YACHT CLUB COMPLETES PLANS FOR YALE

The Harvard Binnacle Club at a meeting Tuesday night completed arrangements for the Harvard-Yale yacht races to be held at New London prior to the crew regatta. The dates selected are June 28 and 29, and the races will be sailed over the courses of the New London Yacht Club. Silver cups will be donated by subscription from the Binnacle club and the Yale Yacht Club.

The 18-footer Dorchon, formerly champion of the Massachusetts Yacht Racing Association in her class, and challenger for the Foster cup on Lake Erie, will represent Harvard. The Dorchon is now owned by K. L. Lindsay '10, and if she retains some of her former speed should easily capture the cup in this class for Harvard.

The Raggybug, owned by S. H. Brown '10, one of the fastest racing dories on Massachusetts bay, will also be one of the Harvard challengers. In 21-foot class, the Aspenet, a Corinthian Y. C. boat owned by F. de H. Houston '10, will probably be the Harvard entry.

As these races will be the first intercollegiate contests ever held in these two college clubs, great interest is being taken both at Cambridge and New Haven, and, if possible, a number of other classes will be added and other challenges entered.

Chicago easily defeated Washington 10 to 3, while Cleveland and Philadelphia played a 12-inning tie game, the score being 1 to 1 when the contest was called.

HARVARD PLANS WHERRY RACING

A race for Harvard men who row only in wherries has been arranged by the university crew management for Tuesday, May 24. This is the first time that a race of this sort has ever been held in the university. Although the Carroll cup, which has been open only to men rowing in singles, has been competed for during more than 10 years, nothing has ever been done to raise the interest of beginners in rowing. No man who usually rows in a single or who has competed for the Carroll cup will be allowed to enter. The race will be held on the regular mile course in the basin.

COLUMBIA WINS BROWN GAME 2-1

NEW YORK—Columbia defeated Brown in a close and exciting game on South field Tuesday afternoon, 2 to 1. Columbia scored once in the second inning and the Providence team was unable to tie the score until the ninth, when Lee gave four bases on balls and made a wild pitch. The Blue and White players came back in their half of the inning, however, and won the game, after two men had gone out. The score:

RATIONAL GOLF BY JASON ROGERS.

There are some interesting points raised in the batch of rules decisions issued for April, says the London Field. First of all, the Haddington Club asks whether frozen casual water on a putting green is to be treated as if the water was not frozen. The rules committee replies that "this is the usual custom both on the putting green and through the green."

The case of the Royal Jersey Ladies Club, dealing with a ball driven off the tee into water in a ditch is by no means so obviously fair. Except in wet weather this ditch is dry, but when the players found the ball it had floated some yards away from the water in the hazard into casual water through the green. The question is whether the ball could be dropped with or without penalty—in other words, whether the player was to escape the penalty of the hazard through the ball being carried away by the running water. The rules committee decides that as the ball was found in casual water "through the green" it should be dropped without penalty. The fairness of that procedure is by no means obvious. The player drove into a hazard, and she escapes paying the penalty by reason of a running stream of water. Justice seems to exact that the ball should have been dropped behind the spot where it entered the ditch with the loss of a stroke. What happened to the ball in the hazard is not a material circumstance to take into account. The fact is admitted that the ball was driven into the ditch, and beyond that there is no need to inquire what happened to it. The running water was in reality an agency outside the match, and the ball in strict fairness should have been brought back to the spot where it entered the ditch, and either played at the spot where it entered, even if moving, or the penalty of a stroke should have been exacted if it was lifted.

Next there is the familiar incident on muddy courses of a ball being embedded fast in soft ground. On that point questions are asked by the Royal Eastbourne and the West Cheshire clubs. It is decided in one case that a ball embedded in a bank cannot be lifted out and then replaced for the sake of loosening it. In the other case the player drives the ball farther into the bank, with a subsequent stroke and makes the ball unplayable. When dug out the ball is completely covered with mud, and before dropping the player removes the mud from the ball with his fingers. Hence the rules committee says that the ball with the mud attached cannot be considered as unfit for play, that the rules give no permission to change the ball in such circumstances, and that the player should have continued to play the ball in the condition in which he found it. That is perhaps exacting too high a penalty in the case where a player lifts his ball and loses two strokes for doing so. Permission even to change the ball would seem to be fair. That case is differentiated entirely from the familiar incident in winter play where a ball gathers a blob of mud in the approach to the putting green. But where a player pays a penalty for touching a ball which has become wholly unplayable no useful purpose in the game is served by compelling him to play a clog of mud.

What is meant by local knowledge is not easy to define. It implies many things—the playing at holes whose distances and positions are known, the avoiding of unseen hazards, the quality of the turf, the intricacies of the greens, and, by no means least in importance, the consistency of the sand in the bunkers, says Cecil Barcroft in the World of Golf. Green committees pride themselves in placing side hazards close to the greens in such a manner that the tee shot must be hit to the right or left of the straight line to open the green. The stranger who is content with asking his caddy the direction of the hole falls a prey.

But the value of local knowledge is greatly exaggerated. Certain blind holes there are, where one has to form a mental picture of the ground beyond that which is visible and the hole (such as the tenth at Sandwich), which are trying to the newcomer, but it is wonderful how a stranger can play a course hitherto unknown, granted that he has confidence in his clubs and in his caddy, and that the latter is competent. A golfer accustomed to play on many links of very different character soon finds himself at home, provided he can hit the ball in the direction pointed out to him. Peculiarities of turf and greens mean little to the man who is on his game.

The chief difficulty presented by a new course is that of judging the distances thereon—the flatter the course the greater the difficulty. He who can form an opinion quickly or can trust implicitly to his caddy is rarely at fault—want of decision or of trust is fatal. I think it is the experience of most that the man who is on his game often performs extraordinarily well on the hitherto unknown battlefield.

Any links which is a fine test of golf must reward knowledge, but the knowledge which is to be of advantage is not that of two or three rounds, but a thorough knowledge gained by constant play under all conditions of wind and weather. Complete ignorance on the part of one who is confident of hitting his shots is a far happier condition than the most perfect knowledge with less confidence, happier even than equal confidence with partial knowledge of difficulties to be avoided.

NEW JERSEY AUTO ENDURANCE RUN WILL END TODAY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—The automobilists who are taking part in the two-day automobile reliability run from New York to this city and back, left here this morning in good condition, the contest proving a big success.

Twenty-nine cars of many makes are contesting for the prize. A Lozier car, driven by H. S. Ireland and carrying the referee, Allen Whiting, of the Automobile Club of America, is acting as pace-maker.

The total mileage for Tuesday was 159. After the cars were looked over by the officials scores were sealed and garaged for the night. The observers were reassigned, and each observer is officiating a different car in the return run to New York. The checking car was so late in getting in that no scores were announced. Many cars, however, came through without the slightest kind of trouble.

Among the cars which finished with perfect scores were the Regal Overland, the Minor and the National. The Stoddard-Dayton, driven by Mr. Newton of Nutley was another car which finished the first day without penalty, after a most creditable performance. It started next to last and finished in the first 10.

Mayor Stoy addressed the tourists here Tuesday night. The autoists will check out at Jersey City at 4:15 o'clock.

BROOKLINE C. C. TENNIS TOURNEY IS PROGRESSING

Rapid progress is being made in the women's open tennis tournament of the Brookline Country Club, and with some of the best players in this section of the state entered, many interesting matches are being witnessed.

Miss Evelyn Sears and Miss E. R. Sears, two former champions, and Miss Marion Fenno have already won their places in the third round of singles.

The mixed doubles have reached the semi-final round. N. W. Niles and Miss Edith Roach having already won their place in the finals by defeating Richard Bishop and Mrs. A. A. Shurtleff in the upper half of the semi-finals Tuesday, 6-4, 6-8, A. N. Reggio and Miss E. R. Sears will meet A. S. Dabney, Jr., and Miss Marion Fenno for the other place in the finals.

The doubles are also being started today.

PRINCETON BEATS LAWRENCEVILLE

NEARLY EVERYBODY NOW-A-DAYS PLAYS GOLF OR WISHES HE KNEW HOW

Commencing on Monday, May 16

THE MONITOR will start a new series of golf articles under the heading

RATIONAL GOLF By JASON ROGERS

These new articles will briefly present useful hints and recommendations of interest to golfers of all classes. Each will contain a picture of some notable golfer, or explaining some shot or point of play in the game.

Set Smith College Field Day OF GREAT STATURE

Girls at Northampton, Mass., to hold tournament May 21.

AT THE WICKET.

One of the aspirants for honors in cricket is shown wielding the bat.

VOLLEY BALL.

Players are shown practising at the popular game for the interclass contests.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass.—Field day will come May 21. All four classes compete for points, the winner to have the cup until next spring. In 1907 the cup was won by the freshman class (1910); last year again by the same class.

Points are contested for in the following sports: Tennis, volley ball, cricket, basket ball, hockey, clock golf, archery and croquet. In each game the best team of the even classes, 1910 and 1912, is pitted against the best of the odd classes, 1911 and 1913, so that the day sees the finals of all the sports which have been going on for several weeks.

In the singles challenge tournament, which is divided into seven classes of 32 girls each, class A will play for the championship of the college. A cup will be awarded to the winner of the tournament of each class. All matches will be the best two out of three sets.

It is interesting to note that in 1908 the championship cup rested in a single game of croquet. Fifty-one entries have been made for croquet from the sophomore class.

A prize of $15 has been offered for the best music for this year's Smith song. The competition is open to all classes. The special commencement choir of 100 voices has been rehearsed this week.

PLAYHOUSE NEWS

ROBERT EDESON IN NEW PLAY.

"Where the Trail Divides," a play in four acts founded on Will Lillibridge's novel, was given its first Boston performance Tuesday evening at the Colonial theater. The cast:

Bob Manning.....George W. Barnum
Dr. Chantry.....Edward Wade
Col. Jim Landon.....Charles Riegel
Bess Landon.....Rose Tapley
Clayton Craig.....Menifee Johnstone
Walt Wagner.....James Gordon
Buck Walker.....James Grady
Bud Smith.....Frederick Watson
Mrs. Jim Burton.....Cordelia MacDonald
Pete Sweeney.....Joseph Rawley
Ma-Wa-Cha-Sa, known as How

Landon.....Robert Edeson
Rev. Henry Mitchell.....Joseph Rawley
Petro.....John Prescott
Hawkins.....Edward Wade

Robert Edeson made the greatest success of his career as the Indian in "Strongheart." In that play, it will be remembered, the action ends when the Indian realizes that he has no right to marry the white girl. In his new play the action begins with the marriage of an Indian How Landon (Mr. Edeson), and Bess (Miss Tapley). They live unhappily together for four months and then Bess goes East with Clayton Craig, with the permission of How, who only wishes her to be happy. More unhappiness for Bess, ending in her death. The Indian follows the couple and finding that Craig ill-treated Bess, shoots him.

Here is action enough to please the most insatiable taste for melodrama. Such a composition is to be judged only on its power to entertain its audiences. Compounded in approved fashion from ready-made "elemental emotions" such a play cannot fail, given audiences that care for the quality of romance it provides. That large numbers of people do care for this kind of stage romance was evident from the enthusiasm of the audience last night.

The play is faulty in dialogue, characterization and general construction. Many of these faults were evidently made intentionally, the idea being first and last to write a popular play. Such a play "Where the Trail Divides" is or will become with a little revision and cutting.

Mr. Edeson played the role of the Indian with all the earnestness and intensity that is so characteristic of him. Not since "Strongheart" has he been able to give all his vigor to a part as he does in his new play. His lovmaking, as ever, was convincing, and pictorially he was highly satisfactory.

Miss Tapley played as Bess, and Menifee Johnstone made much of Craig of the mean disposition. Miss Cordelia MacDonald and Frederick Watson provided much fun as an affectionate middle-aged pair. The several character parts were played with full appreciation of their theatrical points. The stage settings were elaborate and well worthy in themselves of being applauded.

Exercises at Emerson College.

Tuesday, the third day of the exercises of commencement at Emerson College, witnessed morning and afternoon recitals, both largely attended.

The morning events were: Esthetic physical culture; (a) Emerson exercises, (b) Eastern temple drill; Jane P. Allen, Vashti Cecilia Butler, Deasy Ione Brooks, Alma Marie Bruggeman, Bertha Leonora Clogston, Alice Jessenia Davidson, Estella Harriet Eells, Grace Alleine Geiple, Emma B. Goldsmith, Christine Frances Hodgdon, Leona Louise Kress, Pocahontas Stauff, Eliza M. Thomas, Nellie Felter Munro, Ethelyn Sophie Zilhaber.

Debate. Resolved, that the elective system should prevail in all our public academic institutions. Affirmative, Nellie Felter Munro, Adelaide Patterson; negative, Claire Louise Stowell, Elma Smith; presiding officer, Ina Mary Wright.

The program closed with a performance of "Nita," a tragedy of Little Italy, told in pantomime; written by Clayton D. Gilbert, music composed by Frank Watson. Nita, Fanny Woodbury; Giuseppe, Alice Sandiford; Lucracia, Gertrude W. Hubbell; Garpere, Grace Martin Weir; Tony, Charles Jackson. People of the Italian quarter: Ethel Lillian Austin, Emma Florence O'Brien; Kathleen Banks Brown, Gertrude Newbold Comly; Irene Elizabeth Merrell, Nan Alice Cleary.

The program for the senior recital in the afternoon was as follows: "Becket" (act 5, scenes 2 and 3), Tennyson, Hugh William Towne; "The Awakening of the Prince Chap," Edward Peple, Beulah Diantha Cady; "The Melting Pot" (act 3), Zangwill, Stella Harriet Eells; "The Fall from Grace," Myrtle Reed, Janet Richardson Chesney; "Mercedes" (act 3), Aldrich, Ruby Page Ferguson.

PASSES THE 150 MARK.

There will be a special interest in the performance at the Park theater this evening, for it is not often the case that a play runs in this city for 150 performances, but that is the case with "The Man from Home," and it goes on to the new period with the performance tonight. The engagement of William Hodge as a star has been one of the notable ones of the recent history at this house, and is going far ahead of "A Gentleman from Mississippi," which began the year there. The piece is just as popular as ever, and the nineteenth week is meeting with large audiences and hearty laughter for the Hoosier from Kokomo and for all the rest of the cast which has been unchanged since the opening of the long Boston engagement.

NEW JERSEY U. S. MARSHAL.

WASHINGTON—Among the nominations sent to the Senate by the President is that of Thomas J. Alcott, to be United States marshal for the District of New Jersey.

THACKERAY says somewhere that it does us good to associate with our betters, and when we realize that this means that by such association we learn to be or to do or to acquire something that excels our present attainment, it matters not what, we see what good advice it is. He does not mean that the only way to improve ourselves is to drink tea with senators and to play golf with proconsuls, but that if we do, and they happen to be good and clever and well-bred, we shall come away the gainers.

The condition of that citizen who feels that he has nothing to learn of any is so ineffable that it is beyond the ken of those that are willing to trudge toward improvement; let us then leave him wrapped in the plaited rainbows of complacency. But to those that are not quite so sure of excellence in every direction, the idea of advancement is not so fearful, rather it holds out a welcoming enlargement and an assurance of more spacious things, and to get these we must attain to higher stature not of the body but in character.

We cannot see Mt. Vernon or Westminster Abbey without being the better for it; not that we have given homage to a whiff of dust but that we have touched the accomplishment of men that did great things and moved among them, who yet were as ourselves. The past is not discouraging, but is the threshold of tomorrow's hope and a link in the chain that binds us to attainment. We cannot walk the lofty shelter of St. Paul's and not stand straighter; here is Nelson's name that boxed the whole compass of salty valor, there the quiet title of some young lieutenant that did his best; the names are there in a brotherhood of duty and both are equal, but the more modest hero could never have claimed this right had he not learned from the more splendid what man could do and then practiced it. A really great man will always encourage us because he has the generosity of experience. When we have seen Mt. Vernon or St. Stephen's we have been brought into closer touch with Washington and Pitt, we have seen the things they did and realities and so are possibilities, yet if we would march with such as these we must take long steps and cannot shirk the toil.

Grandiosity will rot the work, mere size is nothing; all the falls of Niagara are very large in their way and so are Gog and Magog in their way. There are a thousand orators that pour forth words of vastness and abound in figures and similes so rich and florid that compared to them the brightest fresco of Veronese is the tepid work of a discouraged amateur, but when we turn to Webster's speeches and see how his oratory and his statesmanship were complements of each other, it is plain what greatness may be like and how distinct from mere play size. The Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge in writing of him says: "He stands today as the preeminent champion and exponent of nationality. He said once, 'There are no Alleghenies in my politics,' and he spoke the exact truth. Mr. Webster was thoroughly national. There is no taint of sectionalism or narrow local prejudice about him. He towers up as an American, a citizen of the United States in the fullest sense of the word."

It does a man good to see a prime minister get into a cab, not for the grace of it or for the remarkableness of it, but to show that the right honorable gentleman puts one foot before the other quite as we do and so far belongs to the same category as ourselves, but this delightful likeness must not intoxicate us or we shall have missed our lesson. We must reverse the process after this and show that we belong to the same category as he, and this we must do by making his standard of excellence our own; there are no doubt many prime ministers to our hands, but again many of these are as yet undeveloped. To be near important, useful men, great men if the word please better, to see them and hear them, always strengthens us if we are simple-minded; familiarity breeds no contempt save in the contemptible and even then it is to be laid to the ignorance of distance. Association with one's betters is a form of education because it teaches by what kind of moral carriage one may expand to like stature; giants are good-natured men, so are what the world calls great men if they be really great and not fretted with the little day of praise, because they know that what makes the people marvel as children to see fireworks is no easy magic that slips in and out of the glare of fame, but a matter of care and that strong staff of liberty, stern discipline.

The same duty of greatness of view that is intimated in the words quoted above about Webster was foreshadowed in the first words of the "Magnolia" when Mather shows how the spirit of many thousands were stirred up to leave the pleasant land of their nativity and sail a thousand leagues over the "ocean sea" on account of pure and undefiled religion. The thousand leagues, the "ocean sea," shows great dimensions in the nativity of this new nation and that vital to its welfare is the understanding that we act as a whole and take great views as Webster did lest liberty be choked. We must see continents, not little hundreds each with its grotesque selfishness and wasting envy, if we would be of great stature. So, let us read noble books and labor to possess their rewards; let us walk beneath lofty trees and learn their stateliness; let us have wide eyes to see our country at once and from shore to shore, citizens of every inch of it, partisans of none of it, and let us at no time be suspicious of our betters lest we disown our friends.

BEQUESTS MANY BY LINCOLN WILL

Widow of Commonwealth Avenue Man Leaves Large Sums to Several Persons, Mostly Her Friends.

The will of Mrs. Annie Preston Lincoln, widow of Joseph Bates Lincoln of 338 Commonwealth avenue, was filed late Tuesday in the probate office, naming as executors Edward Friebe of Cohasset and the State Street Trust Company. The only heir-at-law, a niece, Mrs. Ella Preston Shannon, wife of Judge Edward W. Shannon of Kansas City, is left $100,000.

Other beneficiaries are as follows: Dr. Edward B. Kellogg, $25,000; Nellie K. Melsaac, a nurse in the employ of the testatrix, $50,000; Henri Ida Wilson of Brooklyn, $25,000; C. Otto Zerrahn of Milton, a clerk in the State Street Trust Company, $10,000; Joseph Cushing Lincoln of Hingham, $20,000; to educate his son, John Bates Lincoln; Susan Bakeman Watson of Hingham, wife of Galen Watson, $20,000; Annie M. Richardson of Cambridge, $10,000; Eugene T. Tileston of Lakeport, N. H., $10,000, for the benefit of his sister, Mary Tileston Nichols; Clara Mansfield, daughter of George Mansfield, former partner of Mr. Lincoln, $10,000.

One public bequest is made, to the Grace Hospital, of $25,000, for the maintenance of a room in memory of Mr. Lincoln. The residuary estate is left to Edward Friebe and his wife, Frances, of Cohasset, a cousin of the testatrix.

ONTARIO OFFICERS IN NEW CLOTHES

TORONTO, Ont.—Samples of the new uniforms which will be worn by the Ontario provincial police have been received at the Parliament buildings, and in the course of a few days a uniform will be issued to every man on the force.

The uniforms are made of blue cheviot, with brass buttons, both cloth and guttens having been imported from England. Genuine Stetson hats will be worn with the summer, and cloth caps with the winter uniforms. The tunic is of military cut, and should be very serviceable.

MEN OF SPANISH WAR REVIEWED

Commander-in-Chief Edward J. Gihon of the Spanish War Veterans reviewed Maj. George F. H. Murray's battalion in the east armory Tuesday evening. Every seat in the large drill shed was occupied. The commander-in-chief was attended by several members of his staff, as was also Department Commander McCammon, who was present as a spectator. The exercises closed with the presentation of long service medals by Colonel Gihon.

BOYS ARE EAGER TO JOIN SCOUTS

Plan to Form Body Like the Baden-Powell Organization Finds a Quick Response From New York Lads.

NEW YORK—The plan to form a body of boy scouts in this country modeled on the Baden-Powell scouts in England has met with an enthusiastic response. Last Saturday more than 75 lads called at the offices of the National Highways Association, 6 West Twenty-eighth street, and a continuous stream was turned away with the information that their applications were premature.

Col. Peter Stuyvesant Bonus, U. S. A., retired, who is enlisting officers, has had numerous offers of assistance from national guard and regular army men, and he is now perfecting the organization of a staff.

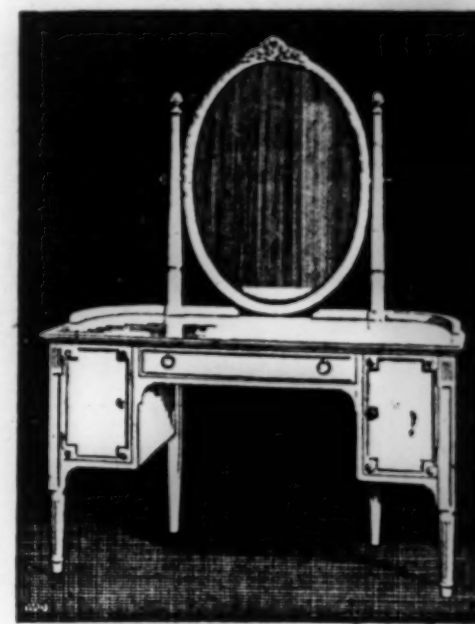

Colonel Bonus also is considering the qualifications for the boys who join, as it is intended to be careful about admitting those of doubtful character, age, or physique. As soon as these preliminary matters have been settled, recruiting stations will be opened in the city, and the enrolment will be undertaken, but it is not believed that this will be possible within two weeks.

PROSPERITY PARADE FOR TRAVELING MEN

SPRINGFIELD, Mass.—The striking feature of the convention of the New England Council, United Commercial Travelers of America, which will be held in this city Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 9, 10 and 11, will be the "prosperity parade," which will be held Saturday morning just before the great banquet in Riverside grove, which is to take place Saturday afternoon.

The council has 60,000 members, and it is a rule that 90 per cent of them attend these annual conventions. With that number of men in line from all over New England the parade cannot help being a pretentious affair.

BEVERLY TO BUILD GRAMMAR SCHOOL

BEVERLY, Mass.—Work on the erection of a new grammar school at a cost of $85,000 in Beverly is to begin at once, and when finished the building will be one of the finest of its kind in the state. The new schoolhouse will replace the present old wooden structure in the square bounded by Rantoul, Elliott, Chase and Rantoul streets.

Facing Rantoul street, the new building, which will be of the modified renaissance type of architecture, is to set in 40 feet from the street, and will occupy a commanding location and be a decided addition to Beverly's fine school buildings. The school is to be of brick, two stories in height, with 12 school rooms, having a seating capacity of 600, and an assembly hall capable of seating 630.

The old Washington school building is to be moved about 40 feet to the corner of the lot. The contractors, Cinn & Hurlbut, will begin work at once, and the building is expected to be finished by Jan. 1.

BOSTON CITY CLUB TO FINISH SEASON

The Boston City Club will present its last entertainment of the season tomorrow evening in the auditorium. It will be a musical, called in the well-known series of the "Kommers."

Included in the program are Dr. Adair J. Harpin of Worcester, harpist; Arthur Gers, pianist; Chambord Giguere, violinist; Karl A. Andren, character sketches; and Arthur Colburn, accompanist.

NATION REFUNDS MR. CURTIS' LOSS

Collector Edwin U. Curtis received word from Washington today that he had been reimbursed in the sum of $3000 which was taken from the Boston sub-treasury department while he was assistant United States treasurer.

The order, which has been signed by President Taft, passed through Congress about three weeks ago, and relieves Mr. Curtis of responsibility for this sum.

A. C. JAMES' YACHT LEAVES QUINCY

QUINCY, Mass.—The Aloha II, a bark rigged auxiliary yacht owned by Arthur Curtis James of the New York Yacht Club, left the Fore River works at 12 o'clock today. On board were Commodore and Mrs. James, Capt. Franklin Plummer of the New York Yacht Club, and a number of invited guests, besides a crew of about 40 men.

Every day has its special feature sale which affords the discriminating buyer unusual opportunity for obtaining bargains.

While all are agreed that dried peas and beans contain nourishing qualities unexcelled by other vegetables, yet many housekeepers object to the time it takes and the drudgery involved in preparing them for soup. By using Dart's pulverized peas and beans your are saved all the preliminary work and all that is necessary to be done is to mix this preparation with a little water, season and boil for half an hour. Don't use too much. One tablespoonful is enough for three full plates.

The ordinary casket, while of considerable advantage in moving heavy furniture in a room, frequently scratches or marks hardwood, tile or marble floors. To do away with this annoyance Henry W. Peabody & Co., 17 State street, New York, have put on the market what they call the invisible casket without wheels, which give an easy, silent movement to the heaviest furniture, leave no marks on the floor and are easily adjusted. You can have a set of four with complete attachment device by sending 25 cents.

L. P. Hollander & Co. have a lot of men's suits consisting of broken lines—one or two of a kind—all made this season in their own workshops from imported materials, which they are disposing at a substantial reduction. These suits, formerly $45 and $40, are now priced down to $30. Their $30 serge suits are now $25.

In the picture galleries on the fourth floor of the new building Jordan Marsh Company have at present a May sale and exhibition of pictures, including water colors from the brushes of well-known English and American artists. This important selection also comprises reproductions in carbon photographs, stone prints, colored and plain photographs, etchings, English prints, mezzotints, engravings and colored photographs. The framing is executed by Jordan Marsh Company's specialists, who are competent to aid the customer in the selection of styles and designs.

Macular Parker Company, 400 Washington street, Boston, have now on view their full assortment of distinctive spring suits which they are in a position to guarantee as to quality, service and style because every garment has been made in their own shops on the premises. On the second floor college men and others who favor clothes cut in advanced styles will find a special department adapted to meet their requirements.

I. G. Small Company, 523-525 Washington street, Boston, are now showing their new summer wearing apparel and millinery.

Particularly attractive are the new pongee suits in dressy styles of new pongee for evening or motor wear; new model dresses in foulard silks and Persian effects; new lingerie gowns and white millinery for June weddings or the graduation girl. Also noticeable are the new sailor hats for schoolgirls, new white veils so popular for summer wear, and a large assortment of new white ribbons and novelties.

The New England Telephone and Telegraph Company announce that their summer telephone directory will be closed May 21, and request all those who purpose placing a telephone in their office or home and wish their name listed in the Boston division to give their order at once. Call at 119 Milk street or at the uptown branch commercial office, 165 Tremont street; or if more convenient telephone Fort Hill 7600, the contract department, and an agent will call.

A visit to Ferdinand's, the large furniture store at the Dudley terminal, 2260 Washington street, Boston, will interest you because of the surprising variety, up-to-date style and moderate price of the stock. At the present time there is a seasonal display of summer furniture, including lawn settees and easy chairs, piazza rockers and tables, screens, pillows, hammock awnings and frames of great variety which are being offered on credit terms at cash prices.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

The older business places along Washington street are gradually being either torn down and replaced by new buildings or the structures now on the site thoroughly renovated and made up-to-date. One of the latest instances of such improvements is to be found in the property numbered 277, 279 and 281 Washington street, near the Old Corner Bookstore property at School street, upon which thousands of dollars will soon be spent by William H. Sullivan, who has just leased the place for a long term of years through the office of Frederick L. McGowan, Devonshire building.

The property is owned by William C. Cogswell, trustee, and comprises a brick structure and about 1635 square feet of land taxed for $108,000. The lot is rated at $188,000. As soon as the present lease expires, and it has only a short time to run, Mr. Sullivan intends to remodel the building throughout. It will be occupied entirely by a tailor. At present there are two stores with offices above.

Agreement papers have been signed whereby another valuable piece of realty in the heart of the mercantile district will soon change ownership. It is on Summer street, not far from Washington street, and the purchaser is a well-known Boston merchant who will occupy. The total amount involved is about $200,000, which does not include the contemplated changes to the building.

The brick building numbered 5 to 19 Battery street, North End, has just been sold by Clarence H. Lewis to James H. Pickering who conveys the title to Joseph Di Pisa. The structure occupies about 4000 square feet of land and contains 16 apartments and six stores. It is assessed on a total valuation of $47,000, of which $20,000 is the rating on the land.

George G. Braley has transferred to Francis J. Larkin the title to the property numbered 75 Warren avenue, South End. It comprises a three-story, well-front brick dwelling assessed on a valuation of $4500 and 1100 square feet of land carrying an additional rating of $3000.

In the West End the four-story brick building and 1254 feet of land numbered 10 Willard, near Leverett street, all assessed on a valuation of $7100, of which the land carries a rating of $4100, have been sold by Emanuel Viano to Teresa Sciala.

Another West End transfer is that of the two-story brick house and 875 feet of land at 63 Joy street, title to which has passed from Mary Casey to Samuel Price. The property is rated at $2700, of which $2400 is on the land.

OTHER TRANSFERS.

Margaret A. Driscoll has sold to Sadie Levenson the two frame house numbered 25 and 33 Wolcott street, Dorchester, together with the land on which they stand, comprising a total area of 5299 feet. The taxed value is $2200 on the land and $13,200 on the buildings.

Joanna B. Casey has purchased from Ella F. Murray the frame house and 2668 feet of land numbered 27 and 29 Greenbrier, corner of Dakota street, Dorchester. Of the total rating of $6000 the land carries $1500.

The frame building and 3874 feet of land at 131 Devon street, Dorchester, are valued by the assessors at $5900, of which $1400 is the rating on the land.

BIG IMPROVEMENTS SOUGHT AT HEARING

Representatives of the various improvement associations of Greater Boston were out in force at the hearing given Tuesday evening in the aldermanic chamber by the mayor and members of the city council on the make-up of the loan bill for the current year and the enthusiasm of many of the district representatives was considerably dampened by the remarks of Mayor Fitzgerald when he announced that of the $3,774,045.71 that the city had a right to borrow Feb. 1 there remained only $1,601,345.71 that might be considered. Of this $300,000 must be kept in reserve for an emergency, and if the Cove street bridge damages are called for this year the sum will be reduced to $1,000,000.

The various sections of the city enumerated the most needed improvements. East Boston wanted a new court house and police building, Charlestown a municipal building and playground, South Boston more improvements than could be covered by the city's right to borrow at this time, the South End a system of drainage which, according to Superintendent Emerson, would cost at least $1,000,000. Other sections ask improvements as follows:

THORNDIKE WILLS GIVE LARGE SUMS

NAHANT, Mass.—The wills of Charles T. Thorndike and his wife, Mary F. Thorndike of this town were probated in Salem today. Mr. Thorndike's estate is estimated at $940,000 and Mrs. Thorndike's at $640,000. Various bequests are made, including one of $300,000 to a son, and the residue is left to trustees to pay the income to persons named for 20 years thereafter. If, at the end of the time, there be no lawful heirs, then the principal is to be divided equally between Harvard College and two Boston charitable institutions. The will of Mr. Thorndike is similar to that of her husband. Although his legal residence was in Nahant, Mr. Thorndike lived there only during the summer. His other residence was in Boston.

SUN RESEMBLES BIG COPPER DISK

The sun assumed a coppery appearance early today similar to that which it had about two hours previous to sunset last evening. A reddish mist seemed to hover in front of the orb, which gave rise to the thought of many watchful persons that this appearance might be due in some manner as yet unexplained to Halley's comet. The earth has not yet reached the tail of the comet, but it was believed that some electrical effect caused the phenomenon.

At Harvard observatory it was stated that the appearance of the sun was in no way affected by the comet, and that it was due to conditions of the atmosphere.

PUBLIC SUBSCRIBE TO CHIME TOWER

HINGHAM, Mass.—The committee in charge of the proposed chime tower and memorial to be erected by popular subscription to the first settlers of the town, has received over $9000 of the $10,000 required. Word was received Tuesday that the citizens of Hingham, England, were sending an oak beam taken from the old church where Peter Hobart and Robert Peck preached before coming to settle in Hingham, Mass. The inscriptions on this beam are those of the time before the Reformation period.

PLANS A HEARING FOR PLAYGROUND

WORCESTER, Mass.—The parks commissioners have warned up to the work of establishing a public playground in South Worcester, in response to the petition of Michael J. O'Shea and 300 others, and have decided to give a public hearing to all South Worcester people interested, in room 24, city hall at 8 p. m., May 27.

At the Railway Terminals

President Tuttle of the Boston & Maine road, accompanied by President Mellie of the New Haven road, left the North station at 8:25 o'clock this morning on a special train for Portland, Me., via the Western division, to attend the Maine Central directors meeting. They will look over the Eastern division on their return.

The road department of the Boston & Albany has three work trains on the Boston division, placing the track in first-class condition for anticipated heavy summer travel.

For the accommodation of a special party to attend the launching of the torpedo boat Sterrett the New Haven road will furnish a train to leave South station at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning for East Braintree, where the train will be delivered to the Fore River Company's road and proceed to the scene of the launching. The special is to return to Boston about 2 p. m.

The board of trustees of the Boston Terminal Company, with President Mellie presiding, held a meeting at the South station yesterday.

ECUADOR SEEKS ALLIANCE

LIMA, Peru.—A member of the Ecuador cabinet has left Guayaquil for La Paz under instructions to negotiate with the Bolivian government and the Chilean minister at that capital an alliance against Peru, it is asserted.

FT. ANDREW PLANS HELD IN ABEYANCE

The failure of Congress to provide the construction end of the quartermaster's department with the money desired for new construction has caused $60,000 to be taken away from appropriations already allotted to the local constructing quartermaster for buildings at Ft. Andrew. The money is to be turned over to the constructing quartermaster at Ft. Winfield Scott, Cal., to erect buildings there.

For a year at least the contemplated building of a band barracks, double set of coast artillery quarters and a double set of captains' quarters at Ft. Andrew will not take place.

AGITATE FOR CITY ELECTRIC PLANT

Possible New Contract With Fitchburg Company Causes Talk of Municipal Ownership.

FITCHBURG, Mass.—The possibility of a new contract with the Fitchburg Gas & Electric Light Company by the city for a term of 10 or 15 years has been made the subject of a municipal lighting plant a live one. Street lighting alone has cost $36,000 per annum.

A special city council committee is considering the lighting question. The water department brings in $37,000 yearly to the city and it is argued that a city lighting plant could also be made remunerative.

The value of cheap electricity for domestic purposes is a factor which strengthens the agitation for municipal ownership.

BALLOONS GO UP AND BOATS RACE

WALTHAM, Mass.—A six-mile boat race on the Charles river and two balloon ascensions from the Common comprise the program for today's events in the Merchants week celebration. There are five entries for the race. The course is from the Moody street bridge to the clubhouse of the Waltham Canoe Club, and will be covered three times.

The merchants whose stores are on the principal streets of the city report the largest amount of sales since the holiday season. Scores of shoppers from neighboring cities and towns were on the streets and in the stores Tuesday evening.

BATTLESHIP GIVES BIG TROPHY DANCE

The crew of the battleship Vermont celebrated the winning of the trophy for record target work last summer by a ball in Mechanics hall Tuesday evening.

Fox was chairman of the reception committee, assisted by J. D. Brown, J. F. Fallon, W. Wilson, L. Wenzel and J. Bloch, H. D. Downs was floor director, assisted by J. B. Hyde, C. Streib, C. A. Pope, E. Zierverink, A. M. Minnow and T. Donahue.

LINER MINNEHAHA IS AFLOAT AGAIN

NEW YORK.—The International Mercantile Marine Company today received a cablegram from its London agents saying that the Atlantic transport liner Minneha, wrecked on the Scilly islands April 18, was floated today and started under her own steam for the yards of the Harlan & Wolff Company at Belfast.

The cable adds that the damage to the Minneha was less than had been apprehended and that the vessel will be repaired so that she can be again placed in commission Aug. 18.

SEEK PRECEDENCE OF CHICAGO PROBE

CHICAGO.—Attorney-General William Stead today asked the circuit court to compel State's Attorney Edmund Burke of Springfield to cease investigating for bribery charges in connection with Senator Lorimer's election until after the Chicago investigation is completed. The attorney-general's move is backed by Governor Deneen, who believes an investigation in Springfield will cause confusion if it does not entirely block the inquiry now being conducted by State's Attorney Wayman here.

MELROSE SCHOOL BOARD WILL MOVE

Within a few days the Melrose school board will move its headquarters from the temporary room inside the high school to the room built for it. The office of Superintendent John C. Anthony will also be in the same room with the school board. The new room is located on the northwest corner of the high school building and has a separate entrance into the driveway. It is also accessible from the school corridor.

HANOVER.

William R. Sylvester, who has been employed on the Hanover branch of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. since it was opened 42 years ago, has retired. Few railroad men in this region are better known. When the Hanover branch was sold to the New York & New Haven road it was stipulated that all the employees should have employment and Mr. Sylvester has been baggage-master on the road for years, working up from a brakeman.

MALDEN DISTRICT'S BAPTISTS CONSULT ON SUNDAY SCHOOLS

The sixteenth annual conference of the Malden District Baptist Sunday school conference is being held today in the First Baptist church, Malden. Included in this district are the Baptist churches of Everett, Malden, Melrose, Medford, Reading, North Reading and Wakefield. Over 200 delegates are participating.

The morning exercises opened with a song service, which was followed by Scripture reading and prayer. Mayor Fall of Malden then delivered an address of welcome to the delegates. There were solos by Mrs. H. B. Campbell, and an address by the Rev. F. B. Meyer, D. D., President of the World's Sunday School Association, on "A World-Wide Vision of Sunday School Work."

After dinner was served by the ladies of the First Baptist church the afternoon session began with prayer and praise service. Mrs. S. J. Cox delivered an address on "Conservation of Natural Resources in Our Sunday Schools."

The following officers were elected: President, John F. Rood of Malden; secretary, Harry P. Bosson of Malden; treasurer, Guy T. Mitchell of Melrose; auditor, F. E. Vaughan of Everett.

The conference will close with a meeting this evening.

Forming Tidy Habits

It is most important that a child be taught to take proper care of toilet articles for everyday use.

After being shown the use of the tooth brush, a special place should be found for it and its special care exacted. Toilet articles can be given as gifts in addition to the toys and games that every child expects and should have. A piece of silver each gift-time soon inculcates a pride in the child's belongings and a care for their conscientious use.

A shelf for shoes, hangers for little wraps, coats and clothes, special hooks for nightgown and wrappers, and a place made attractive with fancy boxes or racks for ribbons, ties or collars will all help to make children particular about their belongings and give them a perfectly legitimate pride in their neat appearance.

Economy Hints

Do not discard your long glove when the fingers are past further mending, for here are some of the uses to which they can be put:

Cut the armlets of your black suede ones into round pieces the size of a coffee cup at the top. About eight such pieces fastened together in the middle with a fancy button make a penwiper. One, let it be added, that never scratches nor blunts the most delicate nibs.

Again, cut them to form little bags. All round the opening a little way from the edge, pierce eyelet holes, through which you can run a pretty cord or ribbon, after which you will be provided with the handiest little copper bag ever yet invented.

Long kid ends of any color will make button covers of an absolutely up-to-date kind; also bindings for hats, coat and collars. Nothing is so fashionable as kid for these purposes. We must not forget, too, that belts, pompons and fringes are made by clever American girls from gloves that, as such, can see no further service.

Roll Lunch Cloths

To have lunch cloths and centerpieces without creases from having been folded is difficult.

Either save the heavy pasteboard rolls that pictures and calendars come in or make a roll of heavy paper about twice as large around as a broom handle—and, by the way, an old broom handle served to start the roll of paper on.

Have two lengths, one about a foot long, for the small linen pieces, and another about three feet long for larger pieces, and roll the freshly ironed linens on these rolls and keep in linen drawers ready for use, and it will not be necessary to iron the creases out of each piece, as is the case when they are folded.—Philadelphia Telegram.

Uses for Emery Cloth

A small strip of fine emery cloth makes a good grip for unscrewing fountain pens, metal covers, etc. Pasted on a card it will light matches. A few drops of sewing machine oil on the emery cloth and you have an excellent oilstone. Also have a strip where you can keep a sharp point on lead pencils.

Navy Blue Serge Popular.

Navy blue serge is very popular with black trimmings and lingerie collar; gray serge is also in favor, and khaki cloth, with black taffeta trimmings, is very smart.

The Latest Modes For Women's Gowns

ELBOW and three-quarter sleeves are assured facts, not only for the fancy blouse, but for the lingerie waist and the shirt waist, although there will also be plenty of wrist length arm coverings.

Sectional sleeves, the bodice and sleeves in one, the normal waist line and hint of the tunic are the recurrent notes of the spring costume above which Paris has placed the broader trimmed hat with its various twists and turns.

Voile promises to be most popular. This material comes in all wool, and in a fascinating mixture of wool and mohair. It is to be had in self colored checks, in diagonals and in the plain weaves. As to colors, apparently the choice is endless.

A great deal of lace and insertion will make the summer dresses of the lingerie order beautiful, the dainty trimming ranging all the way from delicate Valenciennes and point d'esprit to heavy Russian and antique lace, often dyed to match the material it trims.

For evening gowns, tulle of different colors will be placed in layers with the delightful changeable effect so striven for. These little short dancing frocks are frequently trimmed with artificial flowers, occurring at the girdle, in garlands on the skirt or outlined yoke and sleeves.

Foulard in all the new shades shows small figures, frequently that old favorite, the polka dot of varying sizes, and will be much worn this summer, heavy Russian lace being used with it in some of the trimming effects.

Cotton veiling in beautiful coloring and many patterns and stripes, checks and plaids is an effective and wonderfully reasonable material which gives good wear and drapes gracefully, the last being a highly desirable quality this season.

The becoming little short cap sleeves appear in the full length bodices, while the reglan, or as it is sometimes called, the Japanese sleeve, is well liked for tea gowns, dressing saques and by strange contrast, evening wraps.

The newest style in imported parasols is of flowered mousseline de soie with a white ground, stretching tightly over a lining of colored India silk, the tone of the design. Instead of a silk strap to hold the folds in place when the parasol is closed, an ivory ring is used. This is fastened to the handle by a cord.

A Second Time of Serving

How to make a dish presentable for a table for a second time of serving is a question that bothers many cooks. Broken jellies, for instance, look particularly deplorable. To bring them up to a presentable appearance take two jellies of a contrasting color, remelt one and break the other into small irregular pieces. Place these in a wetted mold and fill up with the melted jelly, taking care to stir all the while with a wooden spoon. Variety may be given by adding preserved fruit to the jellies while they are warm. Never make a remelted jelly too hot. For some reason it never sets well.

Another combination of leftovers is jelly and blanc-mange converted into "marbled blanc-mange." Melt the jelly, color it if necessary to make a contrast to the blanc-mange, break the blanc-mange into fairly large pieces, put in a wetted mold and pour over the jelly, which must be only barely warm or it will curdle the blanc-mange. This dish has a dainty marbled appearance when cold.

Broken tarts can be cut into regularly shaped pieces and placed around the sides of a deep bowl. Stewed or preserved fruits may be heaped in the center and the remains of a custard rewarmed and poured on top.

A half-eaten rice pudding has a depressing appearance. Smooth it down level on the bottom of the dish and fill up with a freshly made custard. Heap on top a whisked white of egg, and you have a very presentable and tasty dessert.—Fall River Herald.

A Cushion for the Man

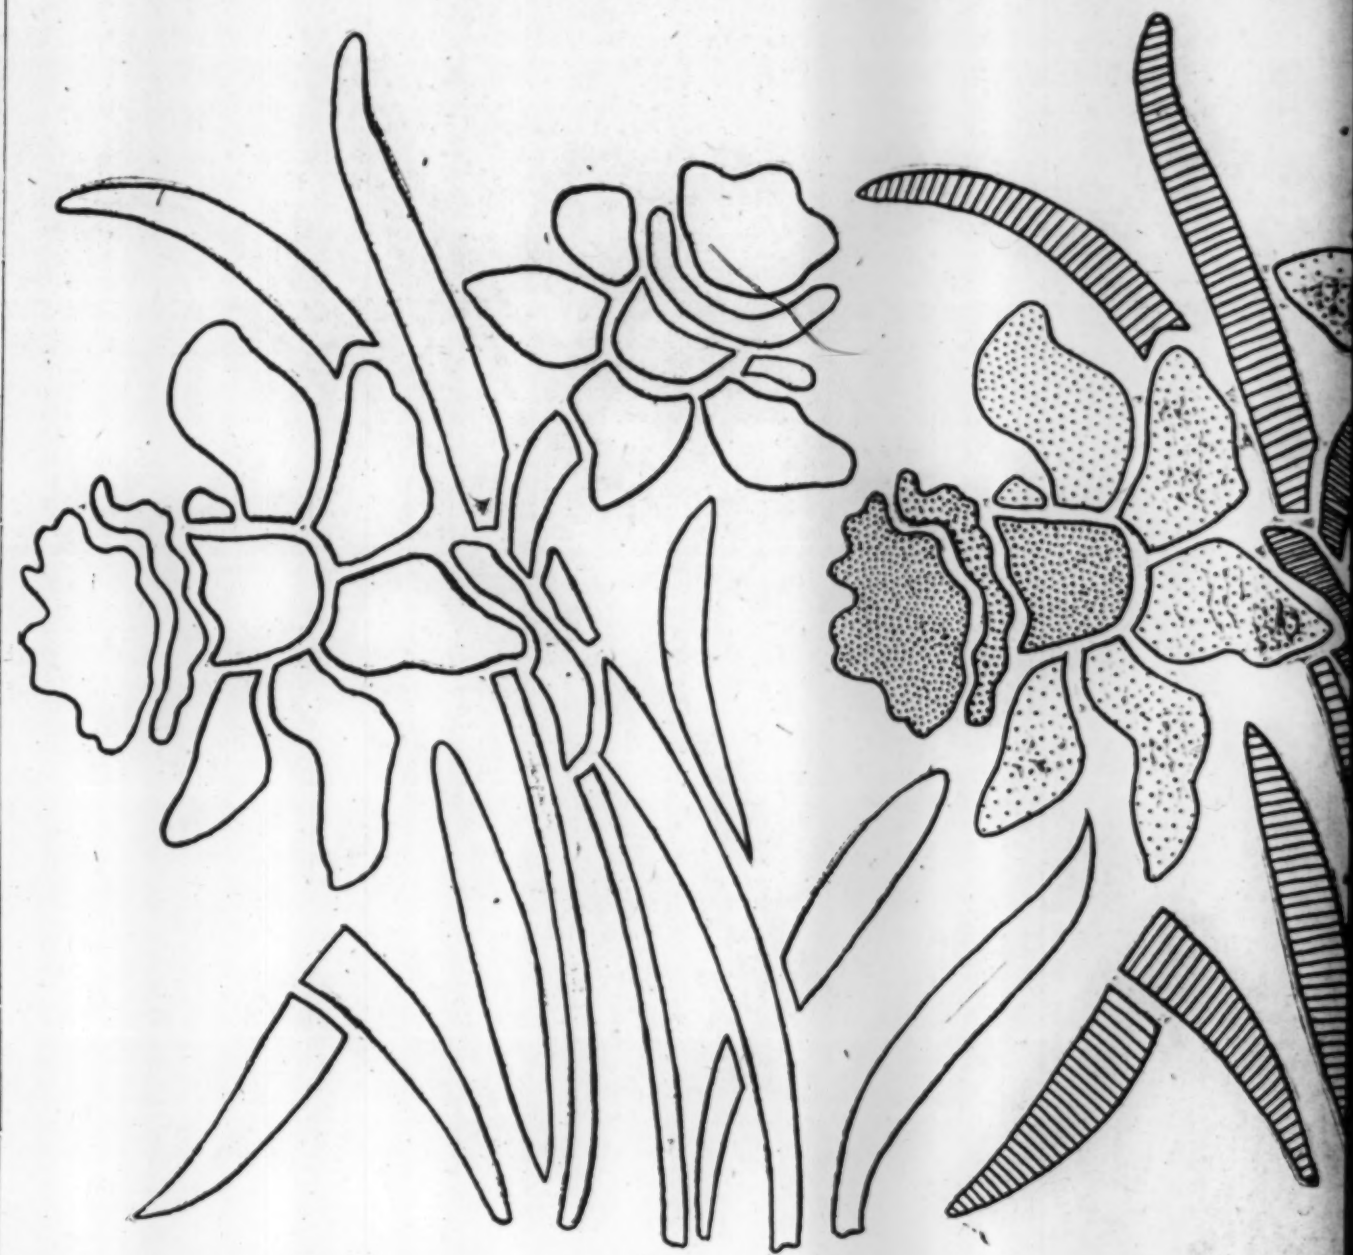

Never give a man a frilly pillow. A cushion for him should be substantial, not too perishable in shade, and usually it will be advisable to get effect with least work. A pillow that is in good taste is a gray or tan colored linen taffeta or art canvas, with the seal of the college embroidered on it in the heraldic colorings. This is newer than the more garish embroideries in college tones of material, and if the case is made to button laundering is easy.

Do not use white moire or satin with rich embroideries in gold or silver thread when working for a man. If he does not use it for a footstool, some of his friends will. Equally avoid ruffles, lingerie materials, or delicate blue, pink, and violet, which are unsuitable for a man's room.

Do not, however, make the mistake of thinking that any sort of pillow will do for a man. Most of them, particularly if in school or college, will be just as scornful of tinted atrocities with heads of Indians or cheap beauties as will a woman of good taste.—Victoria (B. C.) Colonist.

AN EVENING GOWN

EVENING gowns that are made on simple lines are exceedingly fashionable for the spring and summer season. This one is made with a two-piece skirt that is trimmed to give a circular effect and with one of the new bodices that is finished with a high shaped girdle.

The material of the skirt is messaline and for the blouse net in matching color that is striped with tiny bugles; and longie banding is used as trimming. The same waist can be made with yoke and long sleeves and these sleeves can be either plain or fancy with the short ones illustrated over puffs, making a double effect, consequently the same model can be made adapted to daytime wear. But evening gowns are sure to be needed and this one is graceful and attractive yet perfectly simple.

If preferred the bodice portion could be made of silk to match the gown. It is laid in tucks and while the beaded net is smart and effective, it is not necessary. Pattern for this gown may be obtained from any May Manton agency. Waist pattern is No. 6572 and skirt pattern No. 6213.

Making Children's Hats

On almost all of the children's hats and bonnets a scalloped edge is made on the linen or pique or on the plaid fabric of French pique, so designed that each large scallop is the result of five small scallops. The embroidery design is less complicated than on the larger hat, each scallop containing a single flower.

As trimming the wide ribbon which surrounds the crown is usually knotted about four times or is shirred into a rosette.

Handkerchief Blouses

Handkerchiefs of bright cotton madras, of dotted and bordered foulard or squares in old English chintz patterns are utilized for blouses for country and seaside wear. They usually show seamless Japanese kimono shape, or are draped somewhat like a fichu, knotted in front.

Ribbons for Draped Effect

Ribbons play an important part in the draped effects of the modes of the hour, and not infrequently the ribbon produces a violent color contrast, such as Sevres blue with prunelle or cinnamon with pale mauve.

Green for Spring Bride's Dress

An exquisite frock from a Parisian designer in the trousseau of a spring bride is of green satin, over the skirt of which is drawn green chiffon to correspond, the joining point of the two fabrics being concealed by a band of green jet. This frock is on the new tunic order, the overdress being attached to the under one and not overhanging, as has been the mode during the past season.

AT present the art of stenciling is in vogue, and especially to the new and attractive with her own handwork. The end of the design shown is one single re which has to be carboned or transferred upon a any art supply store at a reasonable price), or of brown paper, then cut out all the islands and perillous oil and dry the stencil well. The stencil paper isn't too thick, but generally a is well to cut upon a sheet of glass. If one uses wrong direction.

When one is preparing a stencil it is a good what little paint goes through to the back of the to have the curtains or the article to be stenciled.

A stencil may be used from either side if and a soft cloth each time it is turned over. The same direction, but quite a different effect can be opposing each other. If one wishes to make them right and left to each other, which gives it.

Ways to Clean Gold

With all its trials the wedding ring is bright for hand-washing suits it. There is no bette treatment than soap and water for either plat gold or silver jewelry, unless it be very much nished. Warm water, a little soapy lather, and soft brush for articles of intricate workmanship with a brisk rub on tissue paper, is the recipe for brooches, chains and bangles alike.

For cleaning all pieces of jewelry, after pairs or otherwise, fine boxwood sawdust is ordinarily employed. The trinket is shaken in it care being taken that it is well embedded in the soft dust. A final polishing is administered with tissue paper, not chamois leather—the latter being usually reserved for watch cases, chased small bottles, stoppers, and what may be called large surfaces.

Straw Trimming

Did you ever view the bundle of straw, either raffia or plaited for the construction of hats, with an eye for the decorative possibilities? It offers many little solutions of the important question of trimming.

Raffia may be used to embroider soft ribbons in large squares, coin spots or to introduce kn stitches on bordered silk or ribbon. Two colors of the straw threads can be used in combination. Especially effective is this when used on two-toned silk.

Then the braid, which, by the way, must be supple in order to be productive of good results, can be used as an edging for ribbon. It can be wound around in the form of a cabochon. It can be plaited to form a wide straw buckle.

Summer Coat Lining

One of the striking features of the summer coat is its lining. Of soft foulard in some of the most attractive designs, it generally contributes to a striking whole.

White serge is still in high favor; oyster gray and tan linen are delightfully heavy in the new basket weaves, while woolen materials are looking enough to afford comfort without an over-burdening warmth.

The summer coat is ornamented with a marine collar or with long revers that cross and button quite far down.

How to Get Best Light From Lamp

Put fresh oil into the lamp every day. Don't fill it quite full, but leave about an inch of space at the top.

Put in a new wick frequently; old wicks get stiff and clogged.

Never cut the burnt part off, but rub it with soft cloth every day.

Keep the outside of the lamp clean and dry,
and you won't be troubled with oily odors.

Wash the burner twice a month, using a lather of warm water, ammonia and soap. Rinse and dry thoroughly.

Before using a new chimney, roll it in a clean cloth and put it in a kettle of cold water. Bring slowly to the boil, and leave it boiling for 15 minutes. The water should be allowed to cool before the chimney is removed.

Chimneys treated in this way will resist any ordinary degree of heat.

After trimming the lamp, turn the wick down below the top of the burner, or it will syphon up the oil and make the outside of the lamp greasy.
Wipe all oil out of the lamp occasionally and empty the reservoir.

Bedroom Decoration Designs

There is ample opportunity for a display of originality in the furnishing of one's bedroom, and a clever girl can make of it a veritable bower and treasure house. It all depends on the color and style of paper and woodwork.

If the paper displays a pattern of trailing vines the hangings may be of cretonne in a similar design, or an even prettier effect is gained if you cut out a running pattern and applique it to white net as a border. The net is placed over plain pink and forms a most effective spread and covers. Spreads of thin dotted Swiss with an embroidered centerpiece may be made over muslin which matches the general color scheme, and young girls have made dainty spreads of scrim, holding some drawn work along the border and in the center.

An especially clever girl refused to have her room papered. Instead she had the walls tinted with a dull corn color. She then stenciled a contemplated design of poppies in dull reds and greens. This design she duplicated on the spread and hangings with the prettiest result imaginable.

A COLOR SHOWER

SOMETHING new in the way of showers for the bride is one in which a single note of color is carried out in all the gifts. The hostess first finds out what is the bride's favorite color,—as a shower is usually given by some intimate friend, she likely knows the color. Suppose pale blue is the favorite color. The hostess will send her invitations as informal little notes, asking a dozen or so of the bride's friends to a 'pale blue' shower. If she can contrive to get a piece of narrow ribbon in the exact shade
the bride likes best, and enclose a fragment in each note all the better. The invitations will explain that the guest may bring anything she likes, so long as it is pale blue or has a note of that color, and the hostess may ask that the gifts be sent the day before the party, to give her time to complete the arrangements.

The 'shower' itself can be conducted in one of the ordinary ways. All the parcels should be wrapped in white tissue paper and tied with pale blue ribbon. One effective method of carrying out the scheme is to have a paper parasol of the chosen color, in which the packages are placed, hung from the ceiling of the room, with streamers of pale blue ribbon from each package. It adds to the Passing of Carved Furniture

Furniture with ornate carvings is fast giving way to that of simpler design.
This revolution in style began several years ago and has gained so rapidly in favor that the leading manufacturers are now vying with each other in producing patterns of straight or curved lines that have the least possible ornamentation. Egg-and-dart and bead moldings, which formerly seemed indispensable, are not seen on the finer pieces nowadays.

In ante-bellum days, a highly ornamented sideboard was the show piece of every well appointed dining room, and the more carvings it carried the more extravagantly it was admired, but the high priced goods of the leading furniture houses of today are those of plain but massive appearance, utterly devoid of carvings, rosettes, scroll work, etc.
Undoubtedly plain furniture is more desirable than carved, for the very good reason that it gathers less dust and is therefore easier to keep clean, and also for the reason that a plain surface is susceptible of higher polish than one embellished with a profusion of carvings.—
Los Angeles Herald.

New Trimming on Summer Frocks

The narrow trimming showing a buttonholed scalloped edge will be a boon to busy mothers who have several small children to sew for, and also for the girl who makes her own clothes, but whose time for needlework is limited.

The trimming comes in 12-yard lengths and can be secured in blue, pink and mauve, as well as in white.

Take Stock Count Before You Clean

It is a good plan occasionally to go over one's home with the eyes of an appraiser; leave out the personal element that comes from long custom and see what you can conveniently do without.

This does not mean pitching out the children's cherished belongings.

Getting rid of unnecessary belongings should not include wounding the feelings of another or throwing out things that later may be wanted.

Many a woman has sold for a trifle an old chair or table of her ancestors that in after years, with wider knowledge of antiques, she would have given much to own.

Things that may safely be parted with in the interest of simplicity are old papers and magazines, old clothing that has no future possibilities, cracked ornaments or those which have long tormented your aesthetic sense, half broken dishes and furniture broken past repair that has long cluttered the attic.

Aid for Removing Spots

In removing spots, put a thick pad of cheesecloth or some other material underneath the spot to absorb the dirty cleansing liquid that soaks through the garment.

SOME TRIED RECIPES.

WAFFLES RAISED WITH YEAST.
Scald a cup and three quarters of milk, add half a teaspoonful butter and a saltspoonful salt, then cool to lukewarm. Stir in a quarter cake of compressed yeast, dissolved in a quarter cup lukewarm water and a pint of flour and beat well. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Beat two eggs, whites and yolks separately, until light, add to the risen dough and bake in waffle irons.

BAKING POWDER WAFFLES.

Sift together one pint flour, two level teaspoonfuls baking powder and a half teaspoonful salt. Add two tablespoonfuls melted butter to a cup and a quarter milk and mix with the flour. Add three tablespoonfuls fine white corn meal; beat well. Lastly fold in the stiffly whipped whites of three eggs and bake at once in well heated and thoroughly greased waffle irons.

ENGLISH MUFFINS.

Take a pint of well-raised bread dough and lay in a two-quart bowl; make a hole in the center and turn in two eggs, beaten very light. Mix egg and dough with a wooden spoon until smooth, add enough milk to make a drop batter, or like a cake batter. Cover and let rise until dotted over with bubbles. Have a griddle well greased and place on it the greased muffin rings. Fill each ring partly full and cook until half done, then turn with a broad knife, or cake turner, and brown the other side.
Turn from rings on to a napkin and serve hot. These muffins should be broken apart and not cut with a knife.

HUNGARIAN GOUTASH.

Wash thoroughly lamb kidneys cut in thin pieces. Put two tablespoons of butter into a saucepan and when hot add pieces of kidneys. Shake and cook fast for 10 minutes. Add four tablespoonfuls of stock or gravy, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one tablespoonful of chopped mushrooms, salt and pepper to taste. Cover and cook slowly for 15 minutes. Mix together the yolks of two eggs and three fourths of a cupful of milk; add to the contents of the saucepan and stir until sauce begins to thicken. Then take up and serve at once. Sprinkle a little chopped parsley over it.

PARSNIP FRITTERS.

Take three large parsnips, three tablespoonfuls of flour, one tablespoonful of butter (melted), two eggs, one cupful of milk, one teaspoonful of salt. Boil the parsnips until tender, grate fine or mash them well and pick out all the fibrous parts. Beat the eggs light and stir them into the parsnips, beating hard until the whole is well mixed. Then add the butter, which should be measured after it is melted, and then the milk, salt and flour. Fry like doughnuts or on a griddle.

PEACH PUDDING.

Put one half can of peaches into a buttered baking dish. Mix two tablespoons of cornstarch in half a cup of cold milk, then stir into a cup and a half of hot milk. Let this cook in a double boiler for 15 minutes. Beat the yolks of two eggs with two heaping tablespoonfuls of sugar, then stir into the hot mixture.
When thoroughly cooked turn over the peaches; make a meringue of the whites of the eggs and two teaspoons of powdered sugar. Bake in a very slow oven for 15 minutes, or till the meringue is browned. The slower this process the more puffy will be the meringue.

PEANUT CAKES FOR AFTERNOON TEA

Take a tablespoonful of butter, half a cupful of castor sugar, an egg, two tablespoonfuls of milk, half a teaspoonful of vanilla essence, and a cupful of flour sifted with half a teaspoonful of baking powder. Measure a cupful of shelled and skinned peanuts. Work half the nuts into the mixture and form into balls. Chop the rest and roll the balls in the minced nuts. Bake for a quarter of an hour, or until ready, in a moderate oven.

ORIENTAL DOMESTIC

RUGS

Important as it is to you that goods be rightly priced, there is one thing that should outweigh this consideration—that's quality.
It's the foundation of satisfaction.

Both these features are given proper attention here.

The buying advantages we possess as a wholesale house, together with our wholesale location (one block from Washington Street and Temple Place), carrying a very low rent, have a marked influence on our prices.

Stocks Again Advance, Easing Off at Close

THE UNDERTONE OF THE STOCK MARKET CONTINUES STRONG

Fluctuations Are Comparatively Wide, With Greatest Activity in Reading in Wall Street Trading.

UNITED FRUIT UP

There was evidence that the New York market was well supported today. The tone at the opening was easy, but it was noted that business became quiet as prices declined, as was the case yesterday. Before midday good buying was in order and stocks made a substantial advance.

It was presumed that the selling was due to profit taking on the lower levels, but it also appeared that the shorts were making another endeavor to break the market. There was some covering as prices advanced and the market appeared to be a distinctly two-sided affair.

Reading was the chief object of interest during the early sales, and in fact during the greater part of the session. Three thousand shares of the stock came out at 160 1/2 at the opening, an advance of 1/4 over last night's closing price. It later receded under 160 and then advanced to 161 1/2 before midday.

The Pacific Coast issues also attracted considerable attention. The common opened 1 1/2 higher than the last previous sale at 110 1/2, and during the early sales advanced 1 1/2 further. The first preferred was in demand and made a good advance.

Amalgamated Copper opened 3/4 at 70 and after improving fractionally sagged off. Before noon it was selling around 70 1/2. Consolidated Gas opened at a point at 138, sold off fractionally and then rose above 139. Brooklyn Rapid Transit opened 1/4 at 78 1/2 and after improving about a point sagged off fractionally. Chicago & Alton opened up 2 1/4 at 146 and reacted to 146.

The Boston market was somewhat unsteady during the early sales but the undertone remained strong. Tamarack opened up 3 points at 53 but dropped 2 points during the first sales. Lake Copper opened up 1/4 at 56 1/2, improved to 56 3/4, declined about 2 points and again advanced. Adventure was up 1 1/2 at the opening at 7 1/2. Indiana opened 3/4 higher than last night's closing at 23 1/4, improved to 24, reacted to 23 1/2, and again advanced. Utah Copper opened at 22 and advanced about 3 points.

Stocks continued to advance during the afternoon. At the beginning of the last hour Amalgamated Copper was selling above 71. Brooklyn Rapid Transit was selling around 81, a gain of over a point above the opening. The gas stocks also were strong, Consolidated advancing 4 1/2 points above the opening. Steel continued to advance moderately. The Rock Island issues were active and higher.

United Fruit was a feature of the local market, advancing from 180 to 182. Utah Consolidated sold around 25, a gain of 3 points over the opening. Wolverine was up 3 points at 118.

FINANCIAL NOTES

There were sales of copper for export late Tuesday in New York at $50.00 equivalent to 12.82 f. o. b. New York.

About one fourth of the $400,000,000 Baltimore & Ohio 5 per cent three-year notes were placed abroad.

Lackawanna and Jersey Central officials say they are considering an increase in commutation rates on their lines.

Sir Edward Clouston, general manager of the Bank of Montreal, who has just returned from London, says British capitalists will invest $200,000,000 in Canada in the next year.

The interstate commerce commission aids in making truce on import freight rates out of eastern ports by restoring rates prevailing before the Boston & Maine reduced its rates.

At the annual meeting of the Union Institution for Savings the retiring officers and trustees were reelected. The Hon. Michael J. Creed was added to the investment committee to replace the late Michael J. Ward. The regular semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent was declared, payable May 18.

Regarded as Impossible Under the Law—Individual Producers Unwilling to Curtail Voluntarily.

The increase in the surplus copper in the hands of producers in this country during April brought the total world's known surplus up to 388,847,839 pounds as compared with a surplus of 247,973,746 pounds on Jan. 1, 1909, when the first report was made by the Copper Producers Association. The invisible stocks on hand it is impossible to estimate, but it is believed that so far as the consumers of copper are concerned they are small.

The surplus is large enough to excite uncertainty as to the position of the industry, and unless the increasing tendency is checked the surplus of copper will soon become large enough to act as a bear factor in the industry for several years to come.

There are many who say that the lower prices for the metal will reduce the output and increase the consumption automatically, but others point to the fact that as rule mines are kept running even when there is no profit in the hope that an advance in prices will be experienced and that copper is so low now that a further decline would make no difference in consumption.

It is certainly a question at what price the production of copper will be reduced by the closing of mines, to say the least, and there are some evils in the situation which would be remedied even though the statistical position of the industry could be improved in that way. The present policy of each fighting for individual interests will logically result in a survival of the fittest, but why a fight to a finish when all would be better off if the interests of each other were considered?

We have entered upon a period when the conservation of our natural resources is one of the leading questions of the day. We have learned that to go on wasting the timber in our forests would be a national calamity, and in the case of iron, coal and other commodities we are saving the national resources for future years. Producers are asking why not conserve our deposits of copper? There are two obstacles in the way of such a policy: one is the Sherman anti-trust law and the other the inability to secure voluntary curtailment by the individual producers, without agreement, but in recognition of the best good of all and that of the future of the industry, the Sherman anti-trust law stands in the way of a consolidation of the properties.

The drift of the metal has been downward, and if the survival of the fittest theory is to be allowed to solve the situation there will be mines closed and men thrown out of work. The leaders in the industrial world no longer expect to be able to consolidate without securing permission of the government, and such supervision by the government as will prevent watered stock, excessive prices and speculation in the commodity.

A combination along the lines of the United States Steel Corporation not being possible because of the Sherman law, it was thought that a policy of curtailment of output might be followed without an agreement of trade. The monthly statements of the Copper Producers Association are all the evidence needed, however, to prove that a policy of curtailment has not been followed by all. The great increase in the production of copper in recent years has come from the discovery of a method by which the great disseminated deposits of the metal could be utilized.

There is a considerable difference of opinion as to the extent of these deposits and the cost at which the copper can be produced, but there are some reasons for believing that the very best possible showing is now being made by these properties, at a time when for obvious reasons the industry is least able to stand the increased output.

It is generally believed by engineers that all the great deposits of copper in this country have now been located, and that the new production of the next few years is well known in the deposits of the Miami, Ray Consolidated, Gila, Chino, Inspiration and a few others.

The consumer will continue to buy from hand to mouth as long as there is a great surplus of the metal on hand. It is impossible for the outsider to tell what the actual cost of production is, for a statement of costs is largely a matter of bookkeeping. The Calumet & Hecla, Phelps, Dodge and other conservative interests provide through charges for depreciation or new development charged to costs for an offset to the one absorbed yearly, but it is a question if the leading low grade producers are so conservative in their methods.

A mine that is paying but 6 per cent or 7 per cent on the cost of the stock and is not providing through depreciation charges or new property for the principal of the investment, is not treating its stockholders fairly, for at the end of the life of the mine there will be nothing to offset the dissipation of the asset. Hence a merely fair return on the cost of the stock is not sufficient by any means to make an investment attractive. It must be borne in mind also that plants wear out and that in the case of low-grade mines such charges run high when applied against the number of pounds of copper to the ton.

BOSTON ELEVATED MAKES BIG GAINS

Total Gross for the Year Will Be Close to Fifteen Millions, According to Present Returns.

It is understood that gross earnings of the Boston Elevated for the seven months to April 30 have been running at a rate to show an average monthly increase of between 6 and 7 per cent. If continued for the full 12 months this would mean additional gross receipts this year of between $840,000 and $880,000 and would bring total gross income very close to the $15,000,000 mark.

The Boston Elevated can, however, make excellent use of any increase in net profits which the big gain this year is likely to provide.

For one thing, dividends will be almost 50 per cent larger than for 1909 year and this will call for about $380,000 increased distribution, bringing the road's dividend payments for the first time above the $1,000,000 mark.

Another factor which must be considered is the very heavy increase in operating expenses. It has cost the Boston Elevated almost $150,000 more for running expenses this year than last. The aggregate of these two items is close to $450,000 and is likely to dispose of the major portion of the gain in net earnings this year.

Of course the favorable thing is that Boston Elevated gross income will this year show the largest increase in the history of the road. It is apparent that the Washington street tunnel is producing returns and that the gloomy forebodings with which its opening was greeted by the Boston Elevated management have happily not come entirely true.

PRESIDENT BROWN ON CROP OUTLOOK

NEW YORK.—President Brown of New York Central lines, who has just returned from the West, says: "I don't think I have ever seen more favorable conditions for small grains than exist generally over the country at present. Government crop report reflected a decided improvement during April, but the next 30 days will witness a far greater change for the better than that."

"As for wheat, I found a great many acres that the owners regarded as a total loss which will make a good crop. All the so-called abandoned acreage is being immediately put into corn; and with that crop it will produce twice as much tonnage for the railroads as it would if wheat had been raised."

In regard to freight rates, he said that some increases in rates were inevitable.

UNION PACIFIC MAKES NEW DEAL

TACOMA, Wash.—A San Francisco special to the News says the Union Pacific has closed a deal with the Northern Pacific to use the new line around Point Defiance which the Northern Pacific is about ready to build, and will use the new Northern Pacific-Great Northern passenger station.

It is said further that the costly Union Pacific tunnel, now under way beneath this city, will not be completed, and that the Union Pacific will have no lines of its own north of Portland.

HEAVY SHIPMENTS OF ORE IN APRIL.

PITTSBURG.—Twenty-two ore vessels were at the docks at Ashtabula, O., at midnight, Tuesday night. Nineteen had brought down 150,000 tons of ore, the biggest fleet of the season.

Shipments of ore were the largest in April on record for that month, at 1,520,305 tons. The only other April that approached these figures was in 1896, when 1,447,386 tons were moved. Shipments are steadily increasing this month.

MERGER PLAN ABANDONED.

NEW YORK.—President F. E. Marshall of the Phenix National Bank is quoted as saying that the plan for the consolidation of that institution with the Bank of N. Y. & N. B. A. has been abandoned. At no time did the negotiations reach a very advanced stage.

THIS GLOBE GIRDLER LIKES AMERICA FOR BIG WESTERN TREES

Official of Moscow (Russia)
Institution Arrives in New York and Tells of His Admiration for United States.

NEW YORK.—Hofrat Heinrich Jurgens, who is one of the officials of a great institution of Moscow which educates the children of officers, soldiers and employees of the Russian government, has reached New York in a tour of the world. He left home last July, expecting to be gone just a year.

Leaving Europe at Genoa Mr. Jurgens visited Egypt, India, the Straits Settlements and the East Indies, China and Japan, and stopped at Honolulu on the way to San Francisco. He is sightseeing systematically and has studied up what he intends to see.

Mr. Jurgens is a very active man, and he is very observant. "If you were to ask me what has impressed me most on my tour," he said at the Wolcott, "it would be difficult to say. But the great trees of California filled me with more wonder than the pyramids of Egypt. For climate and beauty I think Honolulu pleased me most. It is ideal. For the last 20 years I have been spending my winters in the south of France, in Italy or in Algeria. I have decided that I must spend a whole winter in Honolulu."

"You know a traveler starts out with certain expectations. If realizations turn out better than anticipations he is delighted. That has been my experience in this country. In Japan I was disappointed. One should visit Japan once—yes—but a second time I would not go there."

A local brokerage house calls attention to the fact that since organization, over 18 years ago, the American Sugar Refining Company has paid an average dividend of 9.6 per cent on the common stock. For the past 10 years the dividend has been maintained at 7 per cent, yielding on the present price 5.6 per cent. The largest dividends were paid in the period from 1892 to 1906, when the rate was cut, owing to losses incurred during the famous "sugar war," with the Antilles. Since the competition ceased, however, it is believed that the earnings of the American Sugar Company show as large a percentage for the stock as they did in the early years of the company's history.

According to the last balance sheet published, it is estimated that there are free assets above the par value of the stock amounting to $68 a share on the $45,000,000 common, part of which may be distributed in the shape of an extra dividend, whenever the directors deem it proper. The recent changes in the directorate may bring this about in the not distant future.

PIG IRON PRICES ARE STEADIER

PITTSBURG.—Consumers of pig iron are giving a great deal of attention to the local situation. While there has been little buying, and actual inquiries are scarce, consumers are making inquiries in a general way as to what can be done in the way of prices. The opinion seems to be general among sellers that prices are not going any lower at present and a moderate buying movement within the next 15 or 20 days would not be surprising.

It is learned that the United States Steel Corporation has decided to bank 21 blast furnaces during May, instead of 17, but that in no case are the furnaces to be blown out except where repairs are needed. The banking of the fires will enable the stacks to resume upon 24 hours' notice and pig iron men say this start will be necessary within the next three weeks at the latest.

MAY TRAFFIC ON HARRIMAN ROADS

CHICAGO.—The Harriman roads' May traffic is about at the April average, which was slightly below March, but considerably above a year ago. Officials cannot find an explanation for the slackening which began early in March, because general business is satisfactory, people are confident of the future and the general outlook is good.

"We've never bargained for less than 100 per cent prosperity," says an official, "and we don't now. Crop business conditions were improved during the past week by rains, and we have enough equipment for current needs, but anticipate heavy demands later. We generally go 15 months ahead in such cases. Equipment contracts have been delayed since April because bids are too high. We offered a fair advance over last year's prices, and the Pullman Company came down to a reasonable basis on passenger cars, other concerns also coming down on freight cars, but our locomotive orders hang fire for satisfactory terms."

ACTORS' FUND FAIR ATTRACTS FAMOUS PLAYERS TO DOORS

Patronesses of the Affair to Raise Money for Staten Island Home Include Many Society Women.

PRICES RANGE HIGH

NEW YORK—The actors' fund fair is in the height of its glory today at the seventy-first regiment armory, following its formal opening Monday afternoon by President Taft. There are miles of temporary lattice work around the booths in the big building and at night thousands of electric lights glow from among baskets of flowers suspended from the roof girders.

Mare Klaw and A. L. Erlanger have paid $1000 for an admission ticket. This is only a sample of the big sales that are taking place every day this week, and which it is expected will net the actors fund the largest amount ever realized at the annual fair. The big fair's purpose is to raise the $50,000 a year required for its aid of the profession of the boards, $10,000 for the maintenance of the beautiful home of resting players at Staten Island and the $40,000 quietly spent in aid where it is sorely needed in the uncertain career of stage folk.

The series of performances to be given at the fair in the miniature theater promises to be the most brilliant ever undertaken for any charity. Practically every player of prominence in the city will give up part of some afternoon or evening during the week to perform there and the little theater will boast of having presented more stars in a week than any other in the country.

The patronesses of the fair include the best known women in the city. Among them are Mrs. George J. Gould, Mrs. Nordica, Mrs. J. Dyneley Prince, Mrs. Lawrence Keene, Mrs. Robert Goetz, Mrs. William P. Douglas, Mrs. J. Russell Foley, Mrs. H. P. Wertheim, Mrs. Philip M. Lydig, Mrs. John R. VASSAR TALKING OF HER FIELD DAY

College Girls Discuss Features of Meet in Which Championships Were Won by the Class of 1911.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—Vassar College girls are today still discussing the victories of the sixteenth annual field day, the championships of which were won by the class of 1911 with 45 points. During the morning events six records were broken, and V's presented to the winners as follows:

Stephanie English of New Haven, Conn., 75-yard dash in 9.4 seconds; Helen White of Germantown, Pa., fence vault, and her record broken immediately after by Alma Barr of Washington, D. C., with 5 ft. 3 1/2 in.; Alma Barr, standing broad jump of 8 ft. 1/2 in.; Theodore Wheeler of Fairfield, Conn., running high jump of 4 ft. 4 1/2 in., and Charlotte Hand of Brooklyn, N. Y., hop, step and jump of 29 ft. 6 1/2 in.

The three ceremonies of the class of 1912 were held Saturday evening. The parade was Helen Jackson of Colorado Springs, and Florence Taylor was the goddess of spring.

Society Musical Event for Beverly

New men's organization to present a concert program in Unitarian church tomorrow evening.

OFFICERS OF THE BEVERLY MEN'S SINGING CLUB.

BEVERLY, Mass.—A musical treat for Beverly people is promised at the First Unitarian church tomorrow evening, when the Men's Singing Club will make its first public appearance, presenting a concert program which 40 men have been rehearsing for two months.

The Men's Singing Club is a new organization in Beverly and is composed of men who have been prominent in Beverly musical affairs and who have felt the need of an organization which could give one or two concerts during the year. Albert Boyden is the president of the club, William C. Morgan secretary and Dr. Whitman G. Stickney treasurer. The membership is limited to 40 and there is a long waiting list.

The concert will be given under the direction of Dr. James Calderwood of Boston, well-known in musical circles, and the club will be assisted by Miss Evelyn Blair of Boston, soprano, and Miss Beatrice Marden, also of Boston, cellist. The affair will be one of the most brilliant of the season at Beverly and the patronesses include Mrs. Augustus J. Boyden, Mrs. Benjamin R. Bulkeley, Miss Annie M. Kilham, Miss Lizzie L. Girdler, Mrs. William Stopford, Miss Sarah W. Clark, Miss Augusta Woodbury, Miss Sara Torrey, Mrs. Andrew W. Rogers, Mrs. John W. Carter, Mrs. Melville Woodbury, Mrs. Walter A. Perry, Mrs. Roland P. Woodbury, Mrs. George J. Hill, Mrs. James A. Shattwell, Miss Mabel Gordon, Mrs. Ralph D. Stanley, Mrs. Charles L. Odell, Mrs. Louis P. Baker, Mrs. William C. Hill, Mrs. Arthur T. Foster, Mrs. Arthur A. Forness, Mrs. Charles F. Lee, Mrs. M. B. Kaven, Mrs. Robert Robertson, Mrs. Allison G. Catheron, Mrs. A. Scott Fraser, Mrs. Leo C. DeMack, Miss A. Lilla Wilde, Miss Alice Cushman, Mrs. Charles W. Hadcock.

The ushers will be Gen. William Stopford, Arthur A. Forness, H. O. Woodbury, Melville Woodbury, Dr. George J. Hill, Roland P. Woodbury, Louis P. Baker, Charles F. Lee, Arthur T. Foster and Allison G. Catheron.

BATTLESHIP FLORIDA TO BE LAUNCHED AND NAMED ON THURSDAY

NEW YORK—The new United States battleship Florida, the first government-constructed dreadnought and the latest addition to the American navy, will be launched tomorrow morning with elaborate and impressive ceremonies at the Brooklyn navy yard. Miss Elizabeth Fleming of Jacksonville, Fla., is to be the sponsor.

The dimensions of the Florida are 510 feet on the load water line, 521 feet 6 inches over all, 88 feet 6 inches beam, with 28 feet 6 inches draft. Her displacement will be 21,825 tons, with 28,000 indicated horsepower, which is expected to drive the Florida through the water at an average speed of 20 1/2 knots an hour. She will have a bunker capacity for 2500 tons of coal, with tanks for 400 tons of oil fuel.

Her main armament will consist of 12-inch guns, 10 in number, mounted in five turrets on the central line of the ship, two forward, one amidships and two aft. The supplies of ammunition will be brought by electric hoists direct from the magazine. The entire handling of the guns will be done by electric motors. There will also be 16 5-inch guns in the turret.

The armor will be of sufficient thickness for defense against torpedo boat attacks and there will be strong bulkheads as additional protection against submarine explosions. The auxiliary armament consists of two submerged torpedo tubes, 10 small guns for boat service and saluting. The main armor belt is eight feet wide of an average thickness of 10 inches, with another belt above of nine inches of thickness and a high casement above that to protect the secondary batteries and funnel bases. The engines will be of the Parsons type.

Among those who are to attend the launching are Secretary of the Navy George von L. Meyer, Assistant Secretary Beekman Winthrop, Albert W. Gilchrist, Governor of Florida, with his staff, Admiral George Dewey, Rear Admirals Evans, Sperry, Schroeder, Wainwright, Potter and Lutetie, the last named being in command of the Brooklyn yard.

When the Florida goes into commission next year she will have a complement of 60 officers and 940 men, and with her sister ship, the Utah, and the battleships North Dakota and Delaware will constitute the first division of dreadnoughts in the United States navy.

NEW YORKERS AID PALESTINE JEWS

Subscribe a Fund of $50,000 to Establish an Agricultural Experiment Station
There.

NEW YORK—Prominent New Yorkers have subscribed a fund of $50,000 to establish a Jewish agricultural experiment station in Palestine and other countries.

Those interested in the project are Julius Rosewald, Jacob H. Schiff, Isidor Straus, Paul M. Warburg, Isaac N. Seligman, Henry Goldman, Louis Marshall, J. B. Greenhut, Samuel S. Fels, Morris Loeb, Adolph Lewisohn and Daniel Guggenheim.

The cost of equipment of the station has been assumed by Messrs. Schiff and Rosewald, and, through the courtesy of the United States department of agriculture, which has manifested the liveliest interest in the project, the station starts out with a valuable set of agricultural records. Aaron Aaronsohn of Palestine has been appointed managing director of the station. Mr. Aaronsohn is now on his way back to Palestine.

PEACE CONGRESS TO CLOSE TODAY

HARTFORD, Conn.—The first New England arbitration and peace congress will close this afternoon with a business meeting, reports and elections. This morning in the Center church house with President Flavel S. Luther of Trinity College presiding, the addresses were: "What the Results of the Hague Conference Demand of the Nation," Edwin D. Mead, director of the International School of Peace, Boston; "Europe's Optical Illusion," the Rev. Walter Walsh, Dundee, Scotland, and by the Rev. Prof. Kilpatrick, D.D., Knox College, Toronto, Can.

This afternoon with Robert Treat Paine, president of the American Peace Society presiding, the program includes an address, "International Law as a Factor in the Establishment of Peace," Simeon E. Baldwin, ex-chief justice of the supreme court of Connecticut; the annual public meeting of the American Peace Society, and address, "War Not Inevitable, Illustrations from the History of Our Country," John W. Foster, ex-secretary of state, Washington.

DECISION MEANS TO SLICE HOUSES

NEW YORK—A unique court decision will necessitate the slicing off of four feet from the front of an entire block of residences on Riverside drive between Eighty-second and Eighty-third streets. Entrances, bay windows and parts of rooms must go, requiring in many cases a complete rearrangement of the interiors. The case will be carried into the higher courts.

The decision comes after a fight lasting several years. Mrs. Charlotte Y. Ackerman began the suit when the buildings were erected about seven years ago.

URGES FREE CONEY BOARDWALK.

NEW YORK—A free boardwalk for Coney Island is the plan of Alderman James E. Campbell, who has secured the passage of a resolution authorizing the board of aldermen to appoint a committee to investigate the proposition of building such an improvement along the beach front.

MONITORIALS

By Nixon Waterman

TAIL FOREMOST.
Now that the comet must follow its tail
Along its stony course,
It appears as though it is bound to go
With the cart before the horse.

AN ANIMATED SCENE.
Stay at home—Did the bounding prairies of the West impress you?
Returned tourist—Yes, in a very lively manner, especially when riding over them on a bucking broncho.

TODAY AND TOMORROW.
Kind Fortune is likely to gladden the ways
Of the worker who honestly delves:
If we thoughtfully care for the precious todays,
The morrows will care for themselves.

A BRIGHT MIND.
Outen—In so many clever little ways Gillon proves that he has a fine idea of the fitness of things.
Bache—So he does. Now for instance, there are the names he has given his two dogs—Caesar and Sycamore.

A BOUNCING BARGAIN.
Tiddley—Does Simpkins think he got a bargain in buying his new saddle horse?
Winks—Well, perhaps that is what he meant when he told me that he was no sooner on the animal than he felt a good deal better off.

ITS MAIN FEATURE.
The comet, like the figure 9,
If of its tail bereft,
Might then no longer "cut a shine"
Since there'd be "nothing" left.

MEMORY'S PICTURES.
One time I saw a swallow skim the water
clear and cold,
Reflecting in its depths his coat of silk;
I deemed it was the fairest sight my eye
might ere behold
Until I saw a milkmaid skim the milk.

CAUSE FOR COMPLAINT.
Pencil—D'Auber is dissatisfied with the way in which the art committee has treated his picture, "The Doll's Washing."
Brusche—Yes, he thinks it should have been hung "on the lip."

NOTES ON DRESS.
Street dresses soon "scuff," ladies say,
In wearing them about,
But a house dress ought to last for aye
Since it cannot be worn out.

THE JILT.
Upon—Miss Sparks proved she was too bright to wed that slow-going Billkins.
Downes—Yes, he himself says that when he came to ask for her hand he found her to be too "no"-ing.

THE GOLDEN RULE.
In speaking, tell your thoughts, and then
Be silent till you've thought again.

THERE ARE OTHERS.
Wiggs—It is rather unfortunate that Stubbins has a habit of losing his temper now and then.
Riggs—Yes, and it is even more so that he has the knack of always finding it again.

THE LIBRARY ALCOVE

By SAM WALTER FOSS.

THE best books at this season of the year are not in the public library. This is the time when Shakespeare's words are true—"books are in the running brooks, sermons in stones and good in everything." There are things better than fresh fish to be obtained from the running brook. In spite of Shakespeare's words, there have not been many people since his day who have looked upon woodland scholars as librarians. A few inspired scholars like Wordsworth and Walton and Thoreau have found better books under the woodland waterfalls and by the meadow streams than they could find in the sunless alcoves of the libraries. In the woods, in the fields, under the stars of the "huge and thoughtful night," all real books have their origin. They are "one with the growing clover and the falling rain." They come out from the heart of nature.

Of course, there are myriads of books that are made from other books. The prophet's strong word is diluted sometimes to extreme insipidity by long generations of scribes and commentators. But the original seen received his word from the heart of the world and the great thoughts that abide loose in the universe. He does not compile them from any previous collection. Books without pages, and books without print, he finds in the running brooks.

We cannot all be seers and prophets; and first hand original thinkers will never surge through the world in mobs. But it is to be hoped that the race, in the multiplicity of ways, will not lose the power of spontaneous thinking. Every man ought to aim to be able to think book thoughts without an open book before him. Let him read, as did the old pre-Homeric lands, before there was anything printed. The earth is one big manuscript, if a man can but get the trick of deciphering it.

John Milton never tried to write, and, presumably, he read but very little between the vernal and the autumnal equinox. Nature was poetizing—and he listened. He overheard many things—his great metonic rhythms—and wrote all the better in December for his lazy listening in May.

So a good librarian is not a heretic to his profession who advises his patrons to restrict their reading of dry moss through the meridian lushness of the year. At this season a man can reach into the atmosphere and grasp better works than one can from any library shelf, just as a juggler seems to take coins out of the empty air. The odors of the lilacs are borne about the world like thoughts, and a man who catches a whiff of them is a thinker in spite of himself. In May and June a man intuitively through his pores. A fish in the sea opens his gills and the Atlantic ocean pours through them. A man in May goes out into his back yard and breathes in the universe. He doesn't need books; he is absorbing and assimilating the raw material from which books are made.

It does a man good sometimes, for a week or two, to go without the newspaper. He loses the baseball gossip, but he gets some interesting news from the universe. It does him good occasionally to renounce books for a season. He loses the sequence of Algren's and Araminta's love-affairs, but he may hear old Nature talking over her world-thoughts, and get an idea or two worth remembering. The silences are noisy with thoughts, if a man can only side into them with ears unfilled by the babbling of the schoolmen.

If long years of a sophisticated life has made nature seem dull, and stupid, and unresponsive, we may know that this sophistication has been carried too far, and that we are forgetting how to enjoy the world. Let us get back the childlike love of nature that seems to be born inherent in every baby-soul—love of birds and butterflies and flowers, of running brooks and blowing blossoms and all the quiet tumultuousness of a summer day. Large quartos hang on chestnut trees, and big folios grow like burrs on the tops of the pines. We need to learn how to read over again and get at the pith of these volumes. Let us begin, if need be, with the primer of the field, and go on to the primer of the meadow, and on through the blueberry pasture, the water lily ponds; and on and on to the sixth reader of the old cathedral woods.

Here are large libraries better than the Biblioteque Nationale, or the library of Congress for reading purposes in the months of May and June. Let a man read books as he eats canned fruit in the winter time. The chemie forces in the sunshine and the air should sprout to life in the thoughts of men as it sprouts to life from the buried grain of corn. At this season of the year let every man be his own book. Let him listen to himself and hear some high thinking.

What Other Editors Are Saying

EDITORIAL views regarding the accession of King George of England follow from leading newspapers in the United States and Canada:

PHILADELPHIA TIMES—A man reserved in his manner, rather exclusive, he is not known as his father was when, prior to being King, he was the Prince of Wales. He is untidy and his views are not known. Perhaps, however, he will be a great ruler.

TORONTO (Ont.) WORLD—The new King is an out and out Englishman, has no favorites, has no prejudices, or if he has, does not care to show them, and therefore will be every inch a King and devoted entirely to the business he has in hand. He will regard his duty mainly as that of upholding the tradition of Kingship handed down by his father and grandmother.

INDIANAPOLIS STAR—The quality of the new King is yet to be shown to the world, but so far as he is known outside of his own country he conveys the impression that he will develop no marked eccentricities of character. The political situation which he confronts at once will be a severe test of his quality.

CHICAGO RECORD-HERALD—The new King of Great Britain is well equipped for the responsibilities and burdens which have so suddenly devolved upon him. He has led a life of duty, of serious interests and of dignity and simplicity. He has earnestly followed the course of public events, and has paid particular attention to the constitutional and political crisis that resulted from the rejection of a budget by the peers in violation of all precedent and usage.

TORONTO MAIL AND EMPIRE—Of one thing the empire may be certain, and that is that the King will have supporting him the great body of citizens who believe in the British empire and who stand for its stability and for its permanence as a force for good in the world.

WASHINGTON (D. C.) HERALD—In English royal history the name of George is not one to which much glory attaches. Perhaps—and may he—the new King will reverse the ancient record.

"During one or more of the first ten months of the year nineteen hundred and ten and of each third year thereafter, such corporations (Savings Banks and Institutions for Savings) shall call in the books of deposit of their depositors for verification, under rules to be prescribed by their respective boards of investment, duly approved by the Commissioner." (Section 43, Chap. 390, Acts 1908)

If You Deposit in any of the Savings Banks named below the above notice applies to you. In accordance with its provisions depositors in these banks are requested to bring or send in (by mail or messenger) their books for verification during the month of May. (Note that four of these banks verify in June as well as in May, and one in May, June and July.)

In view of the fact that the law requires this for the protection and safeguard of depositors they should, as a matter of self-interest, be prompt to comply with this notice. Books sent by mail will receive immediate attention.

J. B. LEWIS, 101 TREMONT STREET, BOSTON

Since Jan. 1, 1909, I have made cash sales of $92,662.58 in the

Fisher Hill District, Brookline

from the land bought on that date. Others in a position to know say this is the largest sale from any one tract in this line. Well informed buyers have been quick to take advantage of the combination of high class locality, desirable neighbors, ease of access and prices lower than market rates. Before Dec. 1 I wish to make further sales equal to the above sum. This opportunity is attractive to investors, high class builders and one to be seized by each person wishing to establish a home under exceptional conditions. REAL ESTATE MEN SAY THIS COMBINATION OF IDEAL CONDITIONS AND LOW PRICES CANNOT BE DUPLICATED TODAY. It will be difficult to equal it in the future. Large or small restricted lots at from 30c to 45c. A few at even less. Terms of payment to meet the convenience of buyers. The Fisher Hill district has been carefully developed with attractive single houses, many of them costing a large sum, which are occupied by their owners. This land, quiet, secluded, free from all objectionable features, is but from one to ten minutes from Beaconfield station, to minutes from South Terminal and near Beacon Street electric at Deane Road. A RARE CHANCE FOR MEN WHO ACT QUICKLY. JOHN D. HARDY, 10 High St., junct. Summer, Boston.

EASTERN AUTHOR

IS IN LOS ANGELES
Edna Dean Proctor Pleads for Retention of Indian Names of Localities as Typical and Beautiful.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Miss Edna Dean Proctor, author of the "Song of the Ancient People," a poetic epic of the Southwest, is in Los Angeles for the spring, a guest at the Hollenbeck. She says:

"There is one thing I wish you would do for me and ask your friends to assist you. I wish you would try in any way you can, to retain the Indian names of places throughout the Southwest. They are typical and beautiful, carrying always a meaning which our tacked-on American names cannot have."

"It is too bad, for instance, that Mt. Tacoma should have been changed to Rainier, simply because a man of that name claimed its discovery."

"My liking for the Indians inspired me to write the 'Song of the Ancient People.'"

Miss Proctor's home is in South Framingham, Mass., but she spends much time in Boston.

DENVER EXPECTS

MR. ROOSEVELT
Major Paul Says Ex-President Will Attend Spanish War Veterans Encampment in September.

DENVER—Theodore Roosevelt will positively come to Denver to attend the national encampment of the United Spanish War Veterans, Sept. 6, 7 and 8, according to a statement by Major Matthew Paul, of the executive committee on arrangements.

It is further understood that General Sherman Bell will be one of the first to greet Mr. Roosevelt as he steps off the steamer in New York harbor in June.

Sherman Bell will go with greetings from the Spanish War National Post, and will again assure the former President that Colorado and the West are anxiously awaiting his coming to the Cheyenne frontier day celebration and to the encampment in Denver.

Another great feature of the encampment will be a full company of Spanish-American war veterans from Boston that will come as a special escort to Col. Edward J. Gilson, under whom they served in Manila.

A movement is on foot to bring "the entire South" to Denver—that is, the entire army of veterans who served in the conflict with Spain.

All Colorado and Wyoming posts will be filled, even to the Red Cross departments, at the time the encampment will be held in Denver. Fort Russell at Cheyenne and Fort Logan will take on old-time activity.

It is estimated that at least 100,000 people will be brought to Denver on account of the encampment.

The Franking Privilege

THE Senate has adopted a resolution calling for an investigation of alleged abuses of the franking privilege. This was brought about in consequence of the circulation of a 480-page book, entitled, "A Story of the Tariff," which has been sent broadcast through the mails under the frank of Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire. Senator Stone of Missouri, the author of the resolution, charged that the book contained matter not in the Congressional Record. The New Hampshire senator defended his course in giving consent for the circulation of the book by saying he had been assured that it contained only matter taken from the Record. He welcomed an investigation which should settle for all time what is frankable and what is not.

That there is a looseness in franking will probably be admitted by most of those who accept the privilege. Senator Stone seems justified in saying that if one party is to be allowed to circulate a campaign book, the same latitude should be granted to all. Senator Money asserted that officers of the government had taken advantage of the franking privilege. Senator Carter stated that desks and even steel safes had been sent by mail. A thorough and effective investigation of the alleged abuses is promised by Senator Penrose, chairman of the postoffices and post roads committee.

It will be entirely proper and wholly desirable to clear out of the mail bags a mass of stuff that does not belong there. A saving will by that means be effected in both the postoffice and printing departments. An excellent example in this line has been set by the librarian of Congress. In former days constant streams of documents printed at government expense flowed in all directions. Now the free list has been cut way down, though the general public may still benefit by the opportunity to purchase valuable publications at cost.

THE care with which ex-President Roosevelt must weigh and measure his words in all the addresses he is now delivering abroad is quite enough to make him self-conscious to the point of absolute reticence. That he is still able to chat with all classes and conditions of people in his friendly, care-free manner is conclusive proof of his large fund of tact.

CERTAIN measures now pending in Congress are called administration bills because they have either been prepared at the instance of the President or have been strongly recommended in his messages. They are only a part, however, of the bills that the President hoped earlier in the session to see enacted. Among the most prominent of those that have been removed from this year's program are the central bank and the postal subvention bills. During his tour of last fall Mr. Taft displayed great interest in both, but on the advice of the party leaders they, with others, were dropped.

There are now remaining of the administration measures the statehood bill, which passed the House months ago and has since been awaiting action by the Senate; the postal savings bank bill, which passed the Senate and is awaiting action in the House; the railroad bill, which is before House and Senate; the anti-injunction bill, the validating (conservation) bill and the campaign publicity bill. It is known to all careful newspaper readers that the defeat of this entire list has seemed probable if not inevitable from time to time recently, because of the dissension in the Republican ranks. Yet, the President at Passaic, N. J., spoke so confidently with regard to the future of his bills as to leave the impression of his possession of some very positive knowledge with regard to the ability of his friends to force them through.

In the course of his Passaic speech the President let fall a remark which would seem to indicate that he had at length decided to follow the advice of the regular leaders and turn his back completely upon the insurgents. Whether a break that cannot be mended shall occur will depend largely upon the willingness of the extreme insurgents to agree to a compromise within the next few days. It is not yet too late to avert a party split of greater consequence than any that has occurred since Grant was President.

CONFRONTED with what experts believe will be a $9,000,000,000 crop of agricultural products in this country this year, the pessimists may well voice the hopelessness of their sorry point of view by reiterating their favorite expression, "What's the use?"

Egypt

THE political situation in Egypt is undoubtedly a somewhat difficult one. At the same time there is no necessity, neither is there anything to be gained, by regarding it from a pessimistic standpoint. It may at first sight appear somewhat anomalous that the country which has lifted the Egyptian fellow out of a condition of serfdom, which has restored law and order to the country, which has placed its finances on a stable basis, which has carried through public works of the vastest magnitude, and which has given the country a prosperity quite unknown to it for centuries, should be the country against which the efforts of what is known as the Nationalist party are directed. Yet the fact that this is so is perhaps the greatest tribute to the British raj that could be conceived. Had Egypt been left under the despotism of a series of Ismaels, there would be nothing for the people to contend for, nor would there be any public spirit to have become contentious. The rule of Lord Cromer has given the Egyptians a self-respect which is finding vent in a measure of agitation. That that agitation has been accompanied by certain deplorable acts is undeniable. It is at such moments, however, that the highest demands of statesmanship are exacted from the rulers of any country. Arbitrary repression is so easy that the politician is apt to forget that it is in the long run futile. The statesman standing unmoved in the midst of popular clamor directs his policy toward its normal conclusion, while the mere politician is hurried into reprisals and excesses. The report compiled by Sir Eldon Gorst, and just issued by the foreign office in London, helps to give some idea of the policy which Lord Cromer's successor has consistently held before him. Any one who knows the pressure which is palpably exerted, in times of stress, by the opinions of what may be termed the European garrisons of the continents of Africa and Asia, will understand the temptation to the British agent to take some hasty step which might be disastrous in its unforeseen consequences. That Sir Eldon Gorst has resisted this temptation is itself proof that he is not the weak ruler for which he has sometimes been mistaken. His report shows that he is fully alive to the difficulties by which he is surrounded, shows that he is even conscious that his moderation may have been excessive, but it proves also that if occasion for sterner measures should arise it would be impossible for any one to complain that the National party had any excuse for exasperation. The principal aim, perhaps, of the agitation kept up by the Nationalist papers has been to discredit, and so to weaken, the British agent. The criticisms, therefore, often intemperate, of the British colony have accentuated this effort in an unfortunate way. It is no doubt intensely irritating to the men who have raised Egypt to its present place to find the Egyptians themselves absolutely unable to rise to the conception formulated for their advancement. To find them rejecting the Suez canal scheme, and resisting the attempt to develop the railway system of the Sudan, on which country Egypt is vitally dependent for her water supply. But it has to be remembered that after being in a state of dependency and repression for centuries a people does not rise to the duties of empire in a day, or gain the broad horizon of the statesman in an hour. The patience which guides them through those years of development is among the things which Rudyard Kipling has described as "the white man's burden."

Clubwomen Convene at Cincinnati

THE tenth biennial meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs begins its sessions in Cincinnati today. Every state in the Union will be represented and there will be visitors from abroad. It is expected that 2500 delegates will be present from organized clubs and federations having a membership of 800,000 women. This is a mighty force—mighty not only because of the great number under one banner, but powerful because made up of some of the brightest and most cultured women of the country. The present head of the general federation is Mrs. Philip N. Moore, who was chosen at the Boston biennial in 1908. She was graduated at Vassar and later studied several years in Europe. Mrs. Moore has traveled much abroad and in this country, and besides being a woman of liberal culture and extensive information, she is noted as a finished parliamentarian.

The subjects to be discussed by the convention are of wide range, including forestry, waterways, household economics, food, sanitation, civics, civil service reform, industrial and child labor. There will be a round table on education and on art and a conference on art. Welcoming the counsel of men, the clubwomen will have addresses by James R. Garfield, William Hall of the forest service and Joseph Ransdell, president of the rivers and harbors congress. For the first time suffrage will be taken up by the federation; papers will be read, but there will be no discussion.

Women's clubs when first started were devoted to study and to papers on literary topics, but these bounds were soon overstepped and the fields into which the organizations entered became wider and wider until now there is hardly one left that their activities do not touch upon. Their work is practical as well as thoughtful and theoretical, and it is a fact long since recognized and gratefully appreciated that the clubwomen are aiding very materially in the world's advance. The Cincinnati meeting bids fair to be a fruitful one.

APPARENTLY if it were within the power of the European peoples to make him so, Commander Peary would return home a rear-admiral several times over.

IT is questionable whether Representative Ames is pursuing the wisest course in attempting to force his Canadian resolution on the ways and means committee and Congress at this time. It is complained in his behalf that he has been able to get no satisfaction from Speaker Cannon, and little, if any, encouragement from the new committee on rules. But it should be explained that the very best friends of freer and fairer trade with Canada might hesitate at present to take a step that might precipitate a renewal of the tariff agitation. There are many in Congress, among the Democrats especially, and not a few among the insurgents, who would be only too glad to use the Canadian reciprocity resolution as a lever with which to open up the entire question. It must be admitted by their opponents, in common fairness, that the country at the present time would not thank Chairman Payne or Speaker Cannon for making another revision of the tariff law possible.

Out of the tariff commission in due time will come proposals, through the President, whereby amendments to the tariff law can be put through without involving the business of the country in a protracted period of disturbance. The national legislators no less than the people will have to be educated out of the belief that the tariff is a political question and into the conviction that it is something to be approached with the view of doing justice to all the interests concerned, without prejudice and without partiality, and with the welfare of the nation in view. This is no time, in any event, for a sober discussion of the tariff question. A discussion could not be avoided if Mr. Ames' resolution were given recognition.

INTEREST in Arctic exploration promises to continue to be lively for some time to come. The Canadian government ship, Arctic, will start north in June to follow Dr. Cook's trail and explore "Bradley Land." Another expedition said to be backed by Dr. Cook's friends to the extent of $1,000,000 will be ready to sail from New York in July with the purpose of proving that Dr. Cook was the first man to reach the top of the earth. In the meantime, Commander Peary, who was distanced by Dr. Cook in the dash for the lecture platform, is now being royally entertained by learned societies in the capitals of Europe. No doubt the commander, paraphrasing an old saying, is fully convinced that he lectures best who lectures last.

THE maker of the chair upon which President Taft climbed to make himself heard at the actors' fund fair in New York city will no doubt advertise the incident as proof of the stability of his wares.

Fighting for Reciprocity

SIR ERNEST HENRY SHACKLETON, famous for his explorations in the Antarctic, has a new ambition. He will not further prosecute his search for the south pole, to which he approached nearer than any other man is known to have done, but he will now go in quest of the immense coal fields which he feels certain exist in the far south. Sir Ernest says he believes that Capt. Robert Scott, the English explorer who will sail for the Antarctic the first of June, will find the pole. Lieutenant Shackleton declares he is confident there is still a continent that remains undiscovered, and on his next expedition, which may start within a year, he hopes to find it. He thinks a tract of land at least 4,000,000 square miles in area and rich in coal deposits lies within the Antarctic circle. On the territory over which his former expedition passed he says they noticed frequent outcroppings of coal, and he holds the opinion that coal is hidden there in large quantities.

The world is bound to rejoice with the British explorer if his expectations are verified by the discovery of another great storehouse of fuel. It is possible that some new source of heat may be found and that then so much dependence will not be placed upon coal; but until that time we shall guard the deposits we have found and hail with satisfaction all those newly brought to our knowledge. The problem of transportation from the Antarctic fields three quarters of the way to the north pole would be solved in some way; and in the popular mind the discovery of a useful product like coal would be of far more value and more important than the finding of the south pole, no matter whose flag is placed upon it.

IT LOOKS as if there are pretty strenuous times awaiting the "summer vacation soldiers" this season. Secretary Dickinson asserts that the rather extensive war maneuvers to be held at ten camps this summer will be conducted on a war-time basis and that the troops will be camped and treated in all respects as if they were in the field in the presence of an enemy. There is to be the least amount of "comforts" and the greatest departure possible from anything that savors of an "outing." Under such conditions war as a popular summer pastime is very likely to become less fashionable than it has been heretofore.

Governor Hughes and the Direct Primary

THE speech delivered by Governor Hughes before the University Men's Club of Binghamton, N. Y., on Monday night leaves no shadow of doubt with regard to his attitude toward the Hinman-Green bill. It was thought in some quarters, believed in others, and hoped even among certain of his friends that, to begin with, he would accede to the expressed desire for a moderate application of the direct system. He soon made it clear that no half-way measure would be acceptable to him. Anything in the nature of a compromise with the existing and recognized evils incident to the operation of the present primary system would, in his judgment, be simply cheating the people of their just dues.

He went thoroughly into the measure whereof he advocates adoption. The Hinman-Green bill, he said, represents the thought and collaboration of many men of large experience in political activity who are sincerely desirous that the control of nominations of party candidates shall be lodged directly with the party members. He held that the measure had been subjected to the widest publicity and the closest inspection and has withstood both. No other legislative measure to his knowledge has been so widely discussed. And now, after it has been made to run the gauntlet, as it were, and when at last the people of the state understand it thoroughly and approve it and demand its enactment, he does not propose to accept alterations in it that would practically destroy its usefulness when enacted.

Governor Hughes' force of character has never been doubted. It was presumed by some, however, that in view of his appointment to the supreme court his interest in a bill so purely political as this might wane and that he might yield to pressure and consent to accept something in the nature of a compromise. His Binghamton speech puts an end to all such conjectures and hopes. He is for the bill as it is because he believes it is a measure necessary to the welfare of the people, and nothing less than its enactment as it is will satisfy him.

WEST TOWNSHEND, VT., is rejoicing over the announcement by President Taft that he will visit the native town of his father in the fall.

ALTHOUGH men of prominence and eminence have been in attendance upon the New England arbitration and peace congress, in session at Hartford during the last three days, or have written to it their hearty indorsement of its aims, the really important phase of the gathering is to be found in the fact that the peace propaganda, as evidenced by the addresses and letters and the condition of public thought which they reflect and represent, is yearly commanding more serious and respectful attention.

It is the practical methods pursued and the practical results achieved that are attracting to the peace movement the sympathy and support of practical people. Nothing could be more rational than that the world-wide movement for peace should have been made educational. It was little less than folly to move against the governments until the people to whom governments are responsible had been given at least elementary instruction in the doctrine of universal brotherhood. As the common people of the nations learn to recognize the simple fact that all have interests in common, and that what is good for the people of one country must ultimately be good for all, they will come to regard the "foreigner" as a neighbor and a friend.

Elihu Burritt, the "learned blacksmith," one of America's peace pioneers, whose memory has been honored by delegates to this congress, understood this fully, and it is a reminder of his wise foresight that in his centennial year the idea of sowing the seed of international peace among the common people, of which he was one of the earliest exponents, should find indorsement in the words of many popular instructors and leaders.

PERHAPS one reason why Weston Walking Clubs are not likely to become numerous is because automobiles and trolley cars are so plentiful, expeditious and comfortable.
